Tomorrow Election Day in City

Interest Shown in Campaign Indicates An Unusually Heavy Vote Will Be Cast

Hundreds of Sedalians will go to the polls tomorrow to cast their ballots for city officials, the special gas tax law, and the special school levy.

The polls will be open from 6:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. in 16 different places, scattered throughout the four wards of the city of Sedalia. Voters are urged by party leaders to cast their votes early in the day.

Indications show that the vote will be heavy in this election. An additional 870 persons have become qualified to vote in Sedalia, since the last election. This morning, 79 absentee ballots have already been cast at the city hall. A total of 20,354 persons are qualified to vote in Sedalia, according to the registration books.

KANSAS CITY, April 3—(AP)—Election day in Missouri will be cold, cloudy and chilly, but the weather bureau doesn't look for any precipitation of consequence.

However, many parts of the state will be wet underfoot.

Heavy showers fell this morning in many parts of the state. West Plains had recorded .82 inches by 6 a.m. The weather bureau looks for the showers to continue through today.

The forecast calls for cloudy, windy and colder with snow flurries in the north portion.

Temperatures tonight are expected to fall to 35 in the northwest and to near 45 in the southeast, with highs Tuesday of from 35 in the northwest to 45-50 in the southeast.

Much interest and enthusiasm have been shown since the Democratic and Republican parties nominated candidates to run for 11 city offices, in addition to naming members of the school board.

Both Parties Worked Hard

The campaigns of the two parties have been that of hard work, and spiced with numerous political speeches and door to door canvassing.

In the last mayoral election in 1946, the Democratic party made a clean sweep, having elected its entire ticket from the top to the bottom. In that election, less than 6,000 votes were polled.

The candidates winning the election will be sworn in on the night of April 17 at the city council meeting.

The Candidates

The official ticket of the city of Sedalia for the general city election are: Office of mayor—Wilbert C. Askew, Democrat; Herb Stuber, Republican. Chief of Police—Edgar Neighbors, Democrat; Carl J. Meyer, Republican. Collector—Paul Albert, Democrat; Mrs. Larry Sibert, Republican. Police judge—Jerry E. Trotter, Democrat; H. O. Berry, Republican. City attorney—James E. Dureley, Democrat; Michael J. Boguske, Republican. Assessor—Joseph C. Potts, Democrat; Albert Newman, Republican. Treasurer—Mrs. Lucy Rabourn, Democrat; Mrs. Frank Evans, Republican. Councilman First Ward—Harry Moore, Democrat; C. E. Carroll, Republican. Second Ward—Elmer C. Sumners, Democrat; George Smith, Republican. Third Ward—Earl H. Lashley, Democrat; Herbert E. Hall, Republican. Fourth Ward—Jim Reed, Democrat; Clyde A. Swafford, Republican. Member of School Board (long term)—Frank W. Hayes, Democrat; Herman Bloss, Republican. A. L. Hawkins, Republican, is named on the school board for a short term office.

Russia Now Admits Having Jap Prisoners

TOKYO, April 3—(AP)—Russia has offered to return about 4,000 more Japanese prisoners of war she once said she didn't have. General MacArthur's headquarters said today.

The Russians said last spring they would send back the "95,000 remaining" Japanese prisoners. They sent that number, and said repatriation was completed.

Allied and Japanese authorities insisted some 376,000 prisoners taken at the end of World War II still had not been accounted for. Since then, the Russians have returned almost 5,000 more.

Russia has refused to discuss her failure to account for the missing Japanese.

Firemen Knew How to Handle Five-Year-Old

ASHAWA, Ont., April 3—(AP)—It takes psychology to handle a woman, even if she is only 5.

Little Marlene Johnson yesterday locked herself in the bathroom. After two hours pleading, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson called in the firemen. The chief and several others pleaded in vain.

Then Oscar Thompson, a fireman with a child of his own, stepped up.

"If you come out, we'll give you a ride on our big, red fire truck."

No answer.

"We'll ring the bell and blow the siren and people will run out of the way."

The door flew open: "When?"

Marlene got her ride.

New Gas Law, Its Meaning To This Area

Will be Explained By Governor Here After Broadcast

Governor Forrest Smith will end his campaign on the proposed gas tax law, in Sedalia tonight, at which time he will make a state-wide broadcast from the St. Louis county circuit room at 8:15 p.m.

Gov. Smith and others from Jefferson City are expected to arrive in Sedalia shortly before a dinner to be held at 6:15 o'clock this evening in the Magnolia room of the Bothwell hotel in his honor. The dinner will be attended by Gov. Smith, the board of directors of the Sedalia Optimist club and Mayor Julian H. Bagby and Noel Tweet, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Following the dinner, those present will adjourn to the circuit court room, where the Governor will give an address on the proposed gas tax law, which he is sponsoring.

These stations will carry Smith's 15-minute speech at 8:15 tonight to all parts of the state, with the speech originating through KDRO, Sedalia:

KFVS Cape Girardeau, KDMO Carthage, KFRU Columbia, KFMO Flat River, KHMO Hannibal, KWOS Jefferson City, KMBH Joplin, WHB Kansas City, KIRK Kirksville.

KLWT Lebanon, KXEO Mexico, KNEB Nevada, KWOC Poplar Bluff, KTTR Rolla, KWK St. Louis, KSGM Ste. Genevieve, KFEQ St. Joseph, KSIM Sikeston, KWTO Springfield and KWPM West Plains.

possed gas tax law, which he is sponsoring. The doors of the court room will be opened at 7:30 p.m. and music will be played until the meeting opens.

To Give Local Situation

Following a 15-minute speech over the radio, the Governor will speak a few minutes longer, among other things, on what the proposed road program will mean to Sedalia and Pettis county.

The Governor will be introduced by G. Patrick Darnell, incoming president of the Optimist Club, which organization is sponsoring the Governor's visit to Sedalia. The out-going Optimist president, Frank Mehl, will give a short talk.

L. D. S. Conference Opens

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 3—(AP)—A six-day general conference of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints opened here yesterday.

Speakers at opening day sessions included Israel A. Smith, president of the church, and Bishop G. Leslie DeLapp.

Communion services for about 13,000 persons marked the conference opening.

How Sedalia is Divided And Where to Vote

Four Wards Are Divided Into Sixteen Precincts

For voting purposes, the city of Sedalia is divided into four different sections, each section being classified as a ward, and included in each ward are three to five precincts, depending upon the size of the ward. There are 16 precincts in the four wards, and in each precinct is a voting place, or otherwise, one of the 16 places the citizens of this city will have to go to cast their votes in the general city election, Tuesday.

For the benefit of newcomers who may not know what ward they live in, the following explanation may help to describe what ward one would be classified in:

All residents living on the north side of Fourth street and north thereof and the west side of Lamine avenue and west thereof are in the first ward. This ward is then divided into three precincts.

Second Ward Residents

If residents live on the north side of Fourth street and the east side of Lamine avenue, they are residents of the second ward. The ward is divided into three precincts.

The third ward residents include those residing on the south side of Fourth street and the east side of Lamine avenue. There are five precincts in this ward.

The fourth ward is on the south side of Fourth street and the west side of Lamine avenue. This ward has five precincts.

Any person living outside of the city limits, even though they operate businesses inside the city limits, are not eligible to vote in the city election.

Where to Vote

Voting places for the four wards and various precincts:

First ward—1st precinct, Engine House No. 2, located between Second and Third streets on Kentucky avenue; 2nd precinct, Mark Twain school; 3rd precinct, Lincoln school.

Second Ward—1st precinct, Engine House No. 1, 817 East Fourth street; 2nd precinct, 313 East Jefferson street; 3rd precinct, Jefferson school.

Third ward—1st precinct, Washington school; 2nd precinct, Whitaker school; 3rd precinct, Potter's Grocery, 2118 East Broadway; 4th precinct, Central Business College; 5th precinct, Sixteenth street and Ingram avenue.

Fourth ward—1st precinct, Broadway school; 2nd precinct, Witte Barber Shop, 612 West Sixteenth street; 3rd precinct, Archias' Floral Company; 4th precinct, Horace Mann school and 5th precinct, court house.

Section of Land Slides 700 Feet

STEBENVILLE, O., April 3—(AP)—A 300-foot section of land slid more than 70 feet here yesterday, uprooting trees and endangering four houses.

The earth broke loose from a 250-foot ridge, moved down four feet and advanced to within 400 feet of the newest of the homes.

It continued to move slowly, but County Engineer Martin Smith said he believed a plateau would soon halt its progress. Winter rains were believed to have caused the section to shift.

Dies of Burns

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 3—(AP)—Mrs. Jessie Harper, 57, died in a hospital today 18 hours after she apparently touched a match to her oil-soaked clothing at her Springfield home.

Hospital attendants said death came as a result of first, second and third degree burns.

Officers said the woman's husband, T. J. Harper, told them his wife had attempted to take her life in a similar manner about 7 years ago.

Here to Write Story on City

The St. Joseph News-Press is preparing a full-page feature article for next Sunday's paper, comparing the city governments of St. Joseph and Sedalia.

Although St. Joseph is a larger city, the two have many similar problems. Each has a gasoline tax, automobile license and parking meters. A good part of the St. Joseph gasoline tax goes into the city general fund, however.

St. Joseph started municipal garbage collection last year, financed by a special 15-cent tax. Trash is not included. The St. Joseph street lighting system is regarded as badly out of date, last having been overhauled in 1927. The city owns its own lighting system but buys electricity from a public utility.

The News-Press story will be written by Merrill Chilcote, managing editor of the paper, who came here also to attend the meeting of Associated Press wire editors.

St. Joseph also has a city election tomorrow. The story will appear after the elections here and is not intended for any political reason, said Mr. Chilcote.

The St. Joseph newspaper man said the citizens of that city were impressed by recent stories of restoration and building of considerable paving here without assessing the cost against adjacent property. In St. Joseph all resurfacing, repaving and new paving is paid for by owners of property fronting the street. The result, he said, has been that many parts of the city have inadequate streets because the property values are not enough to justify paving.

1,000 Pilgrims Expected to Visit Jerusalem Holy Week

By Fred J. Zuy
JERUSALEM, April 3—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 Christian pilgrims from the United States and other countries are expected inside the old walled city of Jerusalem this week for holy week observances.

This compares with only a handful able to take part last year due to the tense situation in the divided city. The old city with most of the holy shrines is under control of Arab Jordan. The new city is mostly held by the Israelis.

Yesterday a procession of 6,000 made the traditional pilgrimage into the old walled city from the Mount of Olives, which Jesus crossed on his way into Jerusalem for the dramatic events that culminated in his crucifixion and ascension.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—The Census Bureau today reported there were 561,000,000 fewer unemployed in March than in February.

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall spoke out today against "propaganda to emasculate and reduce" the European recovery program.

But the former secretary of state said that the four-year plan which bears his name should end on the scheduled date, June 30, 1952, adding:

"I feel that if this date is settled and clear it will spur the work of the European leaders and people to accomplish the extremely difficult task ahead of lifting themselves above the need for our financial assistance."

MUNICH, Germany, April 3—(AP)—Hermann Goerring's buried treasure, once reported to be worth a million dollars, turned out today to be worth less than 10,000 deutschemarks (about $2,500).

The "treasure" was found last Friday buried in Veldenstein castle, near Nuerberg. The castle was once the home of Goerring. Adolf Hitler's No. 2 Nazi, who committed suicide to avoid hanging as a war criminal.

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) demanded today that Secretary Acheson make public a secret memorandum on Far Eastern policies given the state department by Owen Latimore last summer. He said that if Acheson does not "it will be my duty as a United States senator to do so."

McCarthy fired his latest shot at Latimore and Acheson in a statement issued at Bethesda (Md.) naval hospital where he is undergoing treatment for a sinus condition.

He has contended that Latimore, a Johns Hopkins university professor, is (1) a Russian agent, and (2) the real architect of American foreign policy in the Far East.

North Missouri Banker Dies
BROOKFIELD, Mo., April 3—(AP)—H. S. (Dick) Johnson, widely known north Missouri banker and mayor of Brookfield, died today.

He was president of the Security State Bank here and of the Citizens Bank at Brownsville, Mo. At one time he was employed in the office of the state treasurer at Jefferson City.

15-Year-Old Kills Father

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 3—Ted Basham, 45-year-old miner, was asleep in a chair last night after a round of taverns when his 15-year-old son shot him fatally three times, police reported.

State Trooper S. E. Tribette said James Emerson Basham will be charged with the slaying as soon as his father is buried.

Trooper Tribette said the boy told him his father always "raised the devil" with the family after he had been drinking.

Basham came home last night about 8 o'clock after making the rounds and sat down in a living room chair. Mrs. Basham and a 12-year-old daughter were in the kitchen making candy. James went to the bedroom, got a .22 caliber rifle and fired. The first shot went into his father's brain.

The family lives in the mining town of Hansford, 18 miles north of here.

An estimated 15,000 watched the procession in sunny weather. It was one of the largest crowds in years. The nearby Judean hills were covered with thousands of red poppies that flowered after warm spring rains.

A steady round of holy week services is in prospect. The Greek Orthodox, Armenian, Syrian and Coptic Christians will observe Easter Sunday on the same day as the Roman Catholic and Protestant faiths this year. The observances usually come on different days because of the different calendars used.

The 1,000 pilgrims are expected from the United States, France, Italy, Philippines, Egypt and other places. Many of them also made the holy year pilgrimage to Rome.

Film on Safety Shown The Rotary Club

Naugel Reports Scout Memorial Dedication July 4

Robert E. Davis of the Missouri Highway Patrol spoke on safety driving and showed films on the same subject at the regular noon luncheon meeting of the Sedalia Rotary today, with Oscar DeWolf the president, presiding.

Rev. Thomas W. Croxton gave the invocation and Rev. D. Warren Neal was the song leader. The program chairman, Lawrence Barnett, introduced the speaker.

The club received an invitation from the Lake of Ozarks Council, Boy Scouts of America, to attend the dedication of the Statue of Liberty on the grounds of the state capital in Jefferson City on April 14. Harry Naugel, reported that Otis Wiley and Z. Lyle Brown are the club representatives on the Boy Scout Statue of Liberty committee in Sedalia and the dedication ceremony will take place on July 4.

It was announced that the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors and the Aims and Objects committee will be held at the home of R. M. Johns, 624 West Seventh street, tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The following guests were introduced by Dr. A. L. Walters: Russell Rhodes, guest of Robert Johnson; M. L. Edwards, guest of Rev. Croxton; Heber Hunt and Don Burkhalter, guest of Louis Bahrenburg and Rotarian Joseph L. McClellan, Billings, Mont.

The junior Rotarians for the month of April will be James T. Walkins and Joe Mehl.

The navy pointed out, however, that under international law foreign submarines have the right to cruise anywhere in the open seas as long as they remain three miles from shore.

The navy called off the search for the Point Arguello submarine at 6 p.m. yesterday. It said visibility was poor due to fog and haze. There was no indication whether the search would be continued.

Jefferson City Scout to Switzerland
JEFFERSON CITY, April 3—(AP)—Miss Majorie Ann Curtis has a little over three months to practice her Swiss yodels.

The 16-year-old Jefferson City high school junior was notified today she has been chosen one of four American Girl Scouts who get a free trip to Switzerland in July. The girls will stay from July 26 to Aug. 16 in the Girl Scouts' own chalet at Adelboden, Switzerland.

The brown-haired Jefferson City girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Curtis.

Council Expected to Meet and Adjourn
The city council will meet in regular session at 7:30 o'clock tonight, but as has been the custom for several years on the night before elections the aldermen are expected to meet and adjourn until a later date.

Man Convicted Of Treason Leaves Boat

Few Hours Later Mysterious Sub Sighted Off Coast

AVALON, Catalina Island, California, April 3—(AP)—A man identified from a photograph as one convicted of wartime treason, vanishes from a small boat at sea.

A few hours later, a mysterious submarine is sighted off the southern California coast.

And the convict, tall, scarred Theodore Donay, 51, Detroit, is reported missing from his home since Wednesday.

These coincidences were pieced together today by authorities investigating the disappearance of a man who rented a boat here Saturday and never returned.

Constable K. McDavid said Ray Dodge, boat rental dock attendant, had identified an Associated Press wirephoto of Donay as his mysterious patron. A wallet left as security for the rented vessel contained a driver's license issued to Donay, McDavid said.

Search Begun
Several hours after the man was due to return with the boat, a search was begun in waters surrounding this island 20 miles off the Los Angeles harbor. McDavid said the boat had its running lights on but the ignition was off when found eight miles northeast of Avalon. The boat contained only a clothing filled suitcase, he said.

The drifting vessel was found some 125 miles south of Point Arguello, where coast guardsmen reported seeing a surfaced submarine at 6:20 a. m. yesterday. The navy said no American submarines were in the area at the time.

McDavid said officers had noted the coincidence of the two events, but there was "no concrete evidence" they were connected in any way.

Shows Up Second Time
SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 3—(AP)—For the second time in five days, a mysterious submarine has been sighted off the California coast.

Coast guardsmen at the Point Arguello lifeboat station north of Santa Barbara saw what they believed to be a surfaced submarine eight miles off shore at 6:20 a. m. yesterday.

The navy, determining that no American submarines were in the area, sent planes aloft for a fruitless, all-day search.

A navy patrol plane reported sighting an unidentified submarine Wednesday near Eureka, Calif. some 600 miles north of Point Arguello. In this instance, too, no American submarines were in the area.

The navy pointed out, however, that under international law foreign submarines have the right to cruise anywhere in the open seas as long as they remain three miles from shore.

The navy called off the search for the Point Arguello submarine at 6 p.m. yesterday. It said visibility was poor due to fog and haze. There was no indication whether the search would be continued.

Ask Congress To Vote More For Airports

Sedalia Municipal Field Included Among Those Named

By James C. Munn

AP Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—Congress is being asked to vote about $36,700,000 for improvement of the nation's airports in the year beginning July 1.

The item, already approved by the House appropriations committee, must be accepted by the House and Senate before going to President Truman in the omnibus appropriations bill for his signature.

Debate on the measure opened today in the House.

The committee figures are tentative. They may be changed or deleted by either the House or Senate.

Must Match Government Money
Also, as a condition of the federal assistance, local sponsors of the improvements sought must match — in most cases — the government's contribution in part or in whole and in some cases must put up more than the government.

The proposed improvements range from acquisition of land to all types of construction essential to airports. All of the proposals have had the approval of the civil aeronautics administration, which submitted the figures to congress.

Projects, including the federal contribution, and the local sponsor's share (in brackets):

Missouri:
Jefferson City Municipal, $100,000 ($100,000); Poplar Bluff municipal, $80,000 ($85,000); Joplin Municipal $80,000 ($50,000); Sikeston Municipal $60,000 ($86,000); Louisiana Municipal, $23,000 ($30,000); Higginsville Municipal, $34,000 ($42,000); Sedalia Municipal, $69,000 ($81,000); Bismarck 000) and Springfield Municipal, $17,000 ($23,000); Cassville Municipal, $8,021 ($12,021); Kansas City Municipal, $500,000 ($470,000); and St. Louis Lambert-St. Louis $500,000 ($500-$45,000 ($15,000)).

Appalling Famine Shakes Communist China

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—Uncensored diplomatic cables show that an appalling famine, plus sweeping epidemics and a tide of unrest are shaking the new Communist government of China. On top of this, Russia—under pretext of aiding a sister state in distress—is sending soldiers and administrators to turn China into a complete satellite. It is a situation which could play squarely into our hands if we play our cards right.

The famine, now officially admitted by the Communists as a "calamitous situation" affects 80,000,000 people from Shanghai in the south to inner Mongolia in the north. Two million will die of starvation.

The famine was caused by floods that cut production in the fertile Yangtze valley 30 to 40 per cent, also blocked shipment of Manchurian grains to the central provinces and by withholding of crops by peasants. Farmers hid their grains and cut back growing after Communists grabbed as much as two-thirds of their crops.

Communist "thought" committees are now going through the villages and executing peasants who fail to turn over grain levies. In the cities, an "austerity movement" requires the Chinese to give up stocks of rice on the shelves.

Epidemics are out of control and rumor so rife that the Communists in Sikiang province claimed that reports of bubonic plague were "incorrect." Instead, their "epidemic prevention corps" identified the epidemic as meningitis.

Anti-Communist guerrillas are also active—especially in Kwantung province around Canton. Rebels in recent moves stripped power lines on the western outskirts of Canton. A band of 600 guerrillas attacked grain boats at Shihui. Peasants are being secretly armed to defy the grain collectors. Throughout most of south China, heavy guards must be put around grain storage.

Amid this turmoil, an estimated 10,000 Soviet troops have arrived in China. Shanghai is now virtually a Russian-controlled city, with Soviet officers holding key spots in the local police force. Too much use of force, however, could boomerang against Moscow and play into the hands of the U.S.A., which once fed part of the Chinese population.

Senator Byrd vs. Farmer Byrd

Harry Byrd, the Dixiecrat Senator who makes political capital preaching economy, and Harry Byrd, the prosperous Virginia apple grower, should get acquainted.

In a recent speech, Senator Byrd attacked the school-lunch program. School lunches, he said, are items "the parents should pay for. It would cost only 20 to 25 cents a day."

But farmer Byrd made no hue or cry when the Commodity Credit Corporation bought 32,376 bushels of school-lunch apples in Frederick county, Virginia, where the Byrd apple farms are located. The apples were purchased between October 1949 and February 1950 to support prices and were distributed in the school-lunch program.

The price the government paid for the Frederick county apples was $1.70 a bushel through December and $1.80 in January and February. They were good apples, listed as U.S. number one, and though Senator Byrd did not sell any of his apples directly to the government, the price-support purchases are designed to keep apple prices firm, and without it farmer Byrd, the biggest apple-grower in the U.S.A., would have suffered.

What farmer Byrd may not have told Senator Byrd was that so many apples were purchased under the price-support program last year, they were even distributed to schools not normally taking part in the school-lunch program. In fact, the federal government last year spent $400,000 for the school-lunch program in Virginia, efficiently run by the Byrd machine.

A Little Child Shall Lead

Justice Sherman Minton can be quite caustic when he heckles government counsel regarding Tideland oil. But he didn't feel caustic the other day as he walked through the coal marble dignity of the Supreme Court, a wide-eyed 2½-year-old boy clutching his finger.

The Supreme Court chamber was empty. But one light glowed softly in this scene of austere beauty, as Patrick Joseph Callanan drew his grandfather to a seat below the curved bench from which his grandfather sometimes heckles government counsel and said very softly:

"Now, granddaddy, we'll wait for Jesus."

Merry-Go-Round

"It's getting harder to find doctors who will practice in rural areas. With civilian hospitals overcrowded and ex-G.I.'s waiting to get into veterans hospitals, the Veterans Administration actually has 4,000 empty beds. The excuse is that trained medics can't be found to staff all hospitals. But the real reason is that the V.A. built hospitals so far out in the sticks that medical men won't take the assignments. . . . George Love, president of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, biggest in the nation, won't represent it in future contract negotiations with John L. Lewis. . . . Pipeline reports are that P.C.C. directors fear Lewis's raging resentment for Love may bring union reprisals against the company.

Dust Storms Point up Need For Soil Conservation Plans

By Bruce Blesett

New dust storms sweeping priceless topsoil off unprotected farms in the western Great Plains lend a fresh urgency to calls for conservation.

A couple of years ago the nation saw quite a flurry of books deploring in alarming tones the wasting of U. S. natural resources, particularly our best soils. They caused a big stir for a while, and then in an almost inevitable reaction.

Critics, some of whom didn't like the gloomy mood of these books, sought to minimize the dangers. The fears were exaggerated, they said. American scientific ingenuity would keep us all in foodstuffs no matter what happened to our topsoil.

Some cited experiments indicating rich crops might be grown in the subsoil, the coarse layer lying beneath the fine topsoil so often washed or blown away. They suggested, too, that the expanding chemical age will turn up many new soil-enriching ingredients to add to present-day fertilizers. It was even hinted that subsoils thus built up would be better than the best topsoils.

It would be foolish to say these things will not happen. The chemical age is indeed producing many miracles, and tomorrow's discoveries might revolutionize agriculture speedily.

Yet the one thing all these rosy forecasts ignored was how much these possibly potent soil builders might cost. Farmers today are finding it expensive to doctor their lands with existing fertilizers on an increasing scale to offset mineral depletion caused by heavy cultivation through the war and postwar period. There's good reason to believe any new enriching elements might also prove costly.

The critics can't get away from the fact that good topsoil spread over the land to a depth of several inches is a tremendously valuable natural resource. If it is carried away by wind or water, its food-producing chemicals must be replaced or the stripped land becomes sterile and non-productive.

None of the critics was able to refute the documented facts of soil depletion. On that point the conservationists quoted government authorities with chapter and verse. Millions of tons of life-supporting soil lie useless today at the bottom of the oceans and bays where they were borne by silt-laden rivers. Other millions of tons have been caught up in swirling winds and deposited hundreds of miles away as worthless dust.

The dust storms of 1950 thus far are but a faint reminder of the tragic winds of the 1930's when thousands of farms were ruined. But maybe they'll help us to buckle down to the job of preserving the rich soil we still have. It's both cheaper and safer than counting on scientific wizardry to rescue us from folly.

Vandenberg's Loss Leaves Critical Gap to be Filled

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg's recent proposal for a nonpartisan commission to study foreign policy points up how sorely missed in the Senate these days is the voice of the Republicans' leading foreign affairs spokesman. Not only his party but the whole country is the loser.

Presumably ill health will compel Vandenberg to keep to the sidelines most of the time from now until his term expires in 1952. He does not intend to run again.

There's no doubt Vandenberg is the man who made the bi-partisan foreign policy a working formula in Congress. That service has been of inestimable value to the nation at a time in history when the United States needed to show a united front to a world plagued by communism.

Vandenberg was uniquely fitted for this role. He dedicated himself in recent years almost entirely to foreign issues. As a specialist he gained stature in the eyes of both parties. His remarks took on added weight because he was not constantly embroiled in the daily verbal brawling on domestic questions.

Strangely, too, his influence seemed the greater because he was an isolationist before he was an internationalist. His colleagues felt in him something of the fervor of the convert. His dramatic shift, made in response to the realities of atomic and guided missile warfare, was the real beginning of his leadership in the Senate.

Within the Senate Republican group there developed a sort of division of labor, Vandenberg carrying the burden in the foreign field and Senator Taft piloting domestic policy.

Though many of his colleagues didn't go the whole way toward sharing his internationalist views, the Michigan senator often was eloquent enough to persuade them to follow him on key matters like the Marshall Plan and the foreign arms aid program.

Up to now no other Senate Republican has showed similar power to command the support of his party colleagues for a broadly internationalist foreign program. The internationalists in both parties, who constitute an overwhelming majority in the Senate, are regretful that no one is yet rising to take Vandenberg's place.

Hopes had once been pinned on Sen. John Foster Dulles, veteran of many an international parley, but his defeat in New York last fall dashed them.

Some talk of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as a likely successor, but thus far he has not made great strides toward establishing himself as a foreign affairs leader.

It will be unfortunate if strong new leadership does not emerge to fill the gap Vandenberg is leaving. For the United States has not yet won the cold war. It still has great need of presenting to Europe and the rest of the world a single, determined front.

• So They Say

We ought to review our whole tax policy—national, state and local—looking more toward an incentive policy where we reward people who put men to work and do our social benefit job through private enterprise.

—Philip Willkie, Indiana state legislator.

The future lies in the great study of human relations. Man will not attain a more abundant life merely by voting for it, he must work for it.

Matt. 9:29; 17:20; Mark 11:22; Acts 3:16

FASHIONED FOR FAITH AND NOT FOR FEAR

It had been my original intention to close the meditations on the conquest of fear last week, but the more we have faced this matter the more fundamental has it become. As I wrote the above, a letter came from a highly gifted woman with this sentence in it: "Oh, Dr. Jones, everything is wrong, and I am so afraid I am going to crack up completely." She says that "everything is wrong." She blames her circumstances; but there is nothing wrong whatever except her fear, which in turn is rooted in her self-centered attitudes. Her universe continually falls to pieces because of her self-centered attitudes giving birth to fears. If she would change the center of her life all her sums would come out right; but with the center wrong nothing comes out right.

This week, then, we shall gather up our inward resolves and register them. These resolves will not be a screwed-up clenched-jaw type of resolves, but a calm, relaxed registration of life committed to certain attitudes.

(1) I see that I am inwardly fashioned for faith and not for fear. Fear is not my native land; faith is. I am so made that worry and anxiety are sand in the machinery of life; faith is oil. I live better by faith and confidence than by fear and doubt and anxiety. In anxiety and worry my being is gasping for breath—these are not my native air. But in faith and confidence I breathe freely—these are my native air. A Johns Hopkins' doctor says that "we do not know why it is that the worriers die sooner than the nonworriers, but that is a fact." But I, who am simple of mind, think I know: we are inwardly constructed, in nerve and tissue and brain cell and soul, for faith and not for fear. God made us that way. Therefore, the need of faith is not something imposed on us dogmatically, but it is written in us intrinsically. We cannot live without it.

To live by worry is to live against Reality.
O God, since the need of confidence and faith is written in me, and they are therefore inescapable, I will not try to escape from them. I surrender myself to the healing and the renewing of faith and confidence. Their healing goes now into every fiber of my being. I am grateful. Amen.

There has been an enormous amount of interest in recent years on Vitamin E for heart disease.

Q—Is vitamin E good for the treatment of heart disease. J.W.

A—A group of Canadian physicians have been active in presenting evidence which they believe shows the value of vitamin E not only in many forms of heart disease but in a good many other disease conditions. Most of the other physicians who have studied vitamin E and heart disease have not found any evidence that this is useful in the treatment of patients with various forms of heart failure, high blood pressure or other heart disorders. It was stated

THE EASTER STORY

The climactic hours of Jesus' ministry began on Palm Sunday, when He entered Jerusalem, hailed by the multitudes. And when he came into Jerusalem, the whole city was moved, saying: Who is this? And the people said: This is Jesus, the prophet, from Nazareth of Galilee. (Matt. 21:10, 11)

A ZALEA PALMER opened her eyes wide in Martin Queripel's office and sighed as if to herself:

"That's the first time in my life I ever fainted. I like it! I think I'll make a habit of it. I've had a perfect rest. Old-fashioned things are the best. And now, I'm a poet!"

Azalea blinked her eyes, seeming suddenly to become aware of the three serious gentlemen, gazing at her knees. Her eyes traveled toward her feet, which Queripel had propped ridiculously on the edge of the office chair in order to cause the blood to flow to her head and bring her out of her fainting spell.

She emitted a shrill little scream as she covered her knees and dropped her legs to the floor. The three gallant gentlemen showed embarrassed expressions for a moment until Azalea, realizing the humor of the situation, awarded them a forgiving smile.

She refused the six outstretched hands from the three gentlemen surrounding her, gathered herself into a mystery of action and was on her feet and into her chair again, facing Martin Queripel, the private detective, his assistant, Timothy O'Hea, and the young lawyer, Harley Kenyon.

Her first words to Queripel were: "Does Paul know all this you've told me?"

Queripel shook his head. "Paul Moody doesn't know," he said. "Now she was ready for hysterics. She cried:

"Why not, in heaven's name? How cruel to keep him waiting! Run, run! Tell him!"

"Why don't you go and tell him yourself," Queripel proposed. "Oh, how I'd love to! But he told me he wouldn't let me see him behind the bars. He forbade me to come to the jail. He said he couldn't bear it."

Queripel had an answer even for this.

"If you're going to be the wife of that square-jawed sculptor you'd better begin to assert your control over him before it is too late."

"That's true! Let's go!" Azalea paused, then asked: "Can I see him if I go to the jail?"

HARLEY KENYON reassured her that she could, and added, "You won't see him behind bars in a cell. I'll have one of the turnkeys drag him to your feet in the conference room."

"Come on!" she cried and dashed from the room, the men following after her like the tail of a comet.

Queripel was thinking that he would really have to let O'Hea drive his car, since he could not trust his own sleepy and shattered nerves, but Azalea led the way to her own limousine, with the uniformed chauffeur to open the door for them.

They piled in and reached the jail, whizzing past traffic policemen too busy making out tickets for minor speedsters to notice their outlaw velocity.

After brief delays that were eternities to Azalea, a guard brought Paul Moody to the conference room. The young sculptor came in sullenly, never dreaming that Azalea was to be there.

"When his cell-weary harrowed eyes met the rainbows and lightning glows and gleaming behind her tear-drenched eyelashes, his cry was a mingling of agony and rapture."

He rather groaned than laughed as he crushed her in his powerful arms. And she was so blissful and so glad to be so hurt by his too servent embrace that she cried herself blind.

She tried to tell Paul all that had happened and to tell everything all at once. So he had not the faintest idea of what she was saying, and had to look over her shoulder to Queripel for information and interpretation.

When he learned all clearly, his knees buckled and Azalea had to hold him up. She said:

"Go on and faint! That's what I did! It's wonderful!"

But he disobeyed her—for perhaps the last time.

HE was ready to rush for his hat and make a dash for freedom. But Kenyon had to tell him that whole spools of legal red tape had to be reeled off before he could be released from custody.

This was almost a more crushing blow than his first miserable entry into jail. But brave Azalea was there with the build-up of cheer. She said:

"When I realize how the women will mob you and how all the beautiful models will pose for your beautiful sculptures and make me look like a mess in miniature, I think I'll just arrange to have you kept in here for life. Steel bars will be a comfort, provided I can move in and share your quarters with you. Can you arrange that, Mr. Queripel?"

"I'll try," lied the very private detective.

But Paul Moody was staring at her with a gaze of adoration that seemed fairly to devour her. He drew her into his arms more tightly and said:

"Steel bars? They can be broken. But your little round arms—oh, Azalea! Ouch!"

THAT was when she clenched him so tightly that his own ribs hurt. Then their lips met and—The jailer, being a modest man, turned his eyes away.

And so did Timothy O'Hea, who had a wife.

And so did Harley Kenyon, who could not bear the sight.

And so did Martin Queripel. And so, no doubt, will the gentle reader.

THE END

recently that "the complete lack of successful or even promising results reported by so many investigators leads to the conclusion that the value of vitamin E in the treatment of heart disease has not been proven."

Q—Just what purpose do the ovaries, uterus and cervix serve? E.E.

A—The two ovaries, one on each side, are the places where the eggs are formed. When the eggs are developed they pass down small tubes called oviducts or Fallopian tubes to the uterus or womb. If the egg is fertilized it develops within the uterus until the child is ready to be born. The cervix is merely the neck of the womb. In a hysterectomy or similar performed for fibroids or similar condition, the uterus is generally removed leaving the other structures in place. The ovaries in particular manufacture hormones which are useful.

Q—When the metabolism is minus 24, is there a thyroid deficiency? What can be done for it? A.M.

A—Metabolism of minus 24 generally means that some thyroid deficiency is present but that the thyroid gland still has some activity. Thyroid extract in the form of tablets can be given to overcome the deficiency.

Q—Are floating and prolapsed kidneys the same thing? J.W.M.

A—A floating kidney is one that is not fixed and moves around in some extent inside the abdominal cavity. A prolapsed kidney is one which lies lower than normal and may or may not be fixed. In other words the two terms may be the same, but are not necessarily so.

Q—Can one strengthen the eyes by exercising them and bathing them in cold water? T.K.

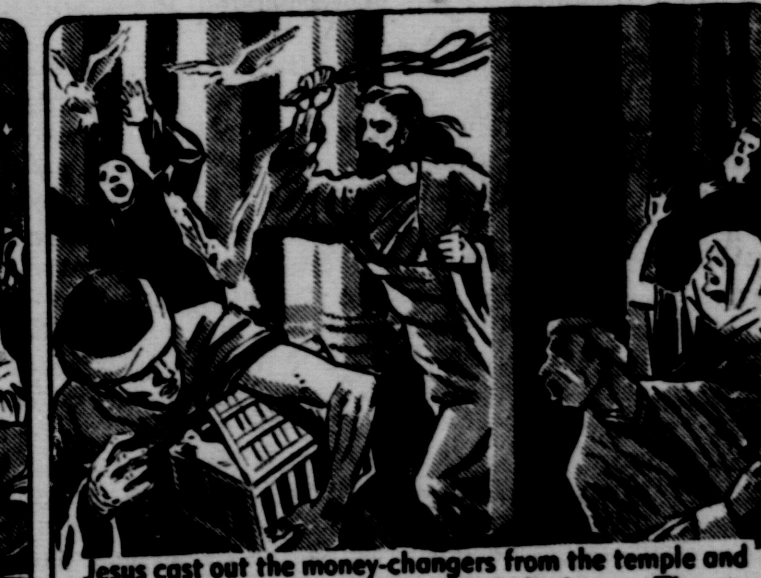

A—I do not believe that bathing the eyes in cold water strengthens them. Exercising the eyes is a complicated procedure, and is only indicated under careful direction and for certain conditions.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS

Dr. Jordan is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, once a week, in this "Q & A" column he will answer the most frequently asked questions received during the week.

In the Beginning, Triumph

Drawn by John J. Sunley

Jesus cast out the money-changers from the temple and miraculously healed the blind and the lame. The envious priests and Pharisees were enraged. And seeking to lay hands on him, they feared the multitudes: because they held him as a prophet. (Matt. 21:45, 46)

Fearing to attack Jesus directly, His enemies met in the court of Caiaphas, the high priest, to plan how to entrap Him. Just then the disciple Judas Iscariot entered. And said to them: What will you give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver. (Matt. 26:14, 15)

Chinese Editor To Address Women's Club

BPWC to Hear Talk On 'What China Will Be in Future'

"What China Will Be in the Future" will be the subject of an address to be given by Robert Chang Li Fu, Chinese editor, author and youth leader, who is attending Central Missouri State college, in Warrensburg, and will be the guest speaker Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at Bothwell hotel.

Robert Chang Li Fu

When Chang arrived at Central Missouri State college last summer to enroll as a student in his home province, Kwangtung, was controlled by the Chinese National government, but since that time it has been occupied by the Communists. Chang, who is not an exchange student, but supports himself, was cut off from news of his family and from funds. This brought the necessity of working in the college cafeteria.

Author of Several Books
Chang, at various times has been secretary general of the Chinese youth expeditionary army, acting governor of Ping Yuen district of Kwangtung, editor of the Chih Pao Daily News in Kwangtung; president of the Kuo-Min university alumni in Hong Kong and director of the Lips News Agency in Hong Kong. He is also the author of several books written in Chinese.

Robert Chang Li Fu, already a well educated man before he entered this country by way of San Francisco, had two years of law at Kuo-Min university in Canton, China; a year in the Chinese National Political school and a year in China's National Military academy, of which Chiang Kai-shek was commander, and has command of nine leading Chinese dialects and also of British Malaya.

Committee in Charge
The program will be in charge of the Education and Vocations committee, of which Mrs. Raymond Goddard is chairman. Members of the committee are Mrs. Thelma Cook, Mrs. Regina Frank, Miss Marie Fritz, Miss Ella Hert, Mrs. Virginia Rose Moore, Mrs. Ruth C. Riley, Mrs. Marie Spendiff, Miss Alyce Summers and Mrs. Doretta Waite.

A special program of music has been planned at which time the Vaughn Sisters will sing with Mrs. Nellie Monegan as the accompanist. The Vaughn Sisters, Emma Jean and Charlene, are from Clarksburg, and have become popular entertainers not only in Sedalia but have appeared on programs in Kansas City, Chicago and various other places.

Non-Agricultural Employment Drops

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 3.—The Missouri Division of Employment Security reported today that February non-agricultural employment dropped 1,400 under the January figures of 1,089,500. February unemployment insurance payments were $2,783,383 as compared to $2,636,062. This is an increase of 34 per cent over February, 1949, Charles A. Ricker, Director, reported.

The Director added that February employment in manufacturing was 1,900 higher than in January, the gains noted in most lines of durable and non-durable goods.

Symphony Rehearsal Tonight
The rehearsal of the Sedalia Symphony will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Smith-Cotton high school, instead of previously planned in Broadway school.

99 Words in GOP Platform

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—Congressional Republicans "have announced in 99 words the "platform" on which they are running in the November elections. Here's how it goes:

- (1) Reducing taxes.
- (2) Balancing budget.
- (3) Eliminating government waste, especially along lines of Hoover commission reports.
- (4) Fighting Communism here instead of condoning it.
- (5) Providing fair market prices on farm products, aided by price supports—cooperative marketing, soil conservation, reclamation, rural electrification—no Brannan plan.
- (6) Continuing and improving Taft-Hartley law to protect public from excessive power of labor and management.
- (7) Developing an adequate social security system that does not limit opportunity nor discourage initiative and saving.
- (8) Protecting rights of veterans and minorities.
- (9) Developing a united American foreign policy for peace—world trade without undermining living standards.
- (10) Safeguarding liberty against Socialism.

CHURCH NEWS

The Sunshine Sunday School class of the Smithton Methodist church met on Wednesday, March 15, at the country home of its president, Mrs. William Montgomery, with Mrs. Oliver Bolte, Mrs. Charles Huntress, Mrs. Charles Huntress, Mrs. Charles Ellison and Mrs. George Mahnen as assisting hostesses.

There were 12 members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Montgomery, who gave a scripture reading followed by prayer.

Mrs. Vest Streit read a poem, "There Is No Death."

The group then sang the class song: "Sunshine in My Soul."

A business meeting was followed by a social hour at which time refreshments were served.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church will be held in the church beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Devotions will be led by Mrs. Charles S. Arnest, and the Rev. Roy L. Bowers will speak on "The Christian Home."

Members of the Williams Circle will serve as hostesses.

The executive committee will meet at 12:30 o'clock.

Pettis Players Begin Casting

Casting will begin Wednesday night for the Pettis Players' next full-length production, "The Male Animal." Michael J. Bogutski has been appointed by the board of directors to direct the play and will, with an assistant director, be chosen Wednesday night, select the cast. Persons who are interested in becoming members are asked to attend the meeting and become affiliated with the club, as all members are eligible to read parts in the try-outs.

The play chosen has been a favorite with college and little theatre groups, and in addition to its intelligent humor, has a serious side particularly appropriate at this time. As was remarked by the critic of the New York Times when the play first made its hilarious appearance on the stage, "There is more than meets the eye in this scrawled lampoon on the civilized male at bay."

James Thurber, best known for his essay, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," and Elliott Nugent, Broadway and Hollywood star, are co-authors of the play. There are eight men and five women in the cast.

Committee chairmen and the play selection committee as appointed by the board of directors will also be announced at the Wednesday meeting, which is to be at Central Business College.

More Fire Runs
The fire companies at 5:05 o'clock Sunday afternoon were called to the 100 block on East Fourth street, where a 1946 Chevrolet coupe had caught fire from a short in the wiring. Damages of about $15.00 resulted.

The car is owned by P. E. Cunningham, Kansas City. An alarm was received at 5:30 o'clock this morning, to Tenth street and Lamine avenue, where an electric light pole was on fire. Slight damage resulted.

Social Events

Victor Eisenstein, division manager of Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Association, and Mrs. Peggy Bracken, Fayette, were married Sunday in a simple ceremony.

The couple were married at the parsonage of the Fifth Street Methodist church by Rev. H. U. Campbell, pastor, at 3 p. m. Sunday. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Milton Walker, of Fayette. David Eisenstein, son of the groom, was best man. Others in attendance at the ceremony were Mrs. Irby Bunding, Chicago, Ill., daughter of Mr. Eisenstein, Milton Walker, Fayette, Mo., Miss Virginia Lindstrom, Sedalia, and Mrs. H. U. Campbell, wife of the pastor.

Mr. Eisenstein is division manager of Mutual Benefit in Central Missouri. Mrs. Eisenstein has been a nurse at Lee hospital, Fayette, since the death of her husband, Mr. William Bracken, in 1946. Mr. Eisenstein's first wife died in 1947.

After an extended trip south and west, stopping among other places at Phoenix, Ariz., for a National Managers meeting of the Mutual Benefit in April, they will reside at 900 West Fifth street.

Included among the Smith-Cotton high school seniors to be accepted for entrance at Christian college, Columbia, next fall is Miss Dorothy Ann Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Reed, 1006 West Seventh street, subject to the completion of her work this spring at Smith-Cotton high school.

She will be a member of the Junior centennial class at Christian college and as a student at Christian, she will be graduated in 1952, one hundred years after the first Christian college girls completed their first year of college work, according to Dr. J. C. Miller, president.

Mrs. Eldon Barnes of 424 North Engineer avenue, entertained with a miscellaneous shower Tuesday night, March 28, in honor of Miss Mildred Rank.

Games were played and after the honoree had opened her gifts refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the following: Mrs. Winston Rank, Mrs. Harve Rank, Mrs. Nora Rank, Mrs. Earl Rank, and Mrs. Ross Swearingin, of Lincoln; Mrs. Homer Whitlock, Urbana; Mrs. Eva Moore and grandson, Gary Hill, Kansas City, Kas.; Miss Judy Summers, Mrs. Elmer Summers, Mrs. Selma Barnes, Mrs. Dwayne McMullin, Mrs. Frank Summers, Joan Summers, Mrs. Billy Noel, Mrs. Delaney, Mrs. Edward Barnes and son, Mrs. Pauline Finnel, Mrs. Ravey Jones and son, Mrs. William Shine, Mrs. Olson Potter, Mrs. Hershel Summers, Mrs. Armand Weaver, Miss Doris Ransdall, Mrs. Bill Armstrong, Mrs. Charley Sheryl Sue Holtzclaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlin Holtzclaw, 1306 East Tenth street, celebrated her third birthday anniversary with a party Saturday. The afternoon was spent in playing games and taking pictures.

Those attending were, Mrs. John Carrier, and daughter Joyce Ann, Mrs. Virginia Haislip and daughter, Linda Sharon, Mrs. Harry Burford and daughter, Barbara, Mrs. Olin Ayres and son, George, Robert, Mrs. Charlie Hotheins and son, David, Mrs. Gordon Williams and son, Gary, Mrs. J. B. Woodward and son, Skippy, Sheryl Sue's grandmother, Mrs. Henry Holtzclaw and aunt, Mrs. G. A. Whitman, Beverly Ann Kueck, Shirley Marie Summich, and Janet Kay Erickson.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served. Favors were candy Easter eggs and chickens.

Another grandmother, Mrs. Roy Sirks, was unable to attend.

Sermon From Wheel Chair

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—(AP)—The First Baptist church was filled to capacity yesterday as the Rev. Francis F. Fisher preached a sermon he had intended to deliver on Palm Sunday one year ago.

This year the 34-year-old clergyman sat in a wheel chair and recounted the age-old story of Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

Behind him was a long year of pain. Before he could deliver last year's sermon he became paralyzed as a result of a swimming pool accident. It was feared his ministerial career was ended.

He was treated for months in New York and was flown back to his congregation last month.

On his return here his fiancée, Florence Athey, said: "We're going ahead building our life from a wheel chair."

Two Cars Damaged

Damage resulted to two automobiles about 7:40 o'clock this morning when they collided at Third street and Massachusetts avenue. No arrests were made.

One car, a 1942 Mercury, was driven by Edward Brill, 601 East Third street, who was going east on Third street, and the other a 1942 Dodge sedan driven by Roy Kendricks, route three, who was driving north.

No injuries resulted.

Archie Wilson to Independence

Archie Wilson, 906 West Sixteenth street, left today for Independence, Kas., to take over the management of the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company store there. Mrs. Wilson will remain in Sedalia for the present.

DO YOU HATE GOING THROUGH 'CHANGE OF LIFE'?

So many women between the ages of 38 and 52 have good reason to hate "change of life"—the time when fertility ebbs away—when embarrassing symptoms of this nature may betray your age! If this functional period makes you suffer from hot flashes or makes you feel so weak, nervous, restless, hard to live and work with—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. Women by the thousands have reported remarkable benefits. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success. Regular use of Lydia Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such middle-age distress. The woman's friend!

WAR IN THE JUNGLE: Does This Look Familiar, Joe?

Stretcher cases lugged through the jungle brush... Heavy trucks mired helplessly in the mud... Frantic building of pillboxes and barricades... These are scenes that will bring back disturbing memories to American GIs who fought in the Pacific. But the pictures are new—made in 1950. The troops are French-backed

BOGGED IN THE MUD—As in all wars, mud plays an important role in the one now going on in French Indo-China between French-backed Viet-Nam forces and the Communists. This former U. S. Army truck is firmly mired after it collapsed a rotted bridge.

JUNGLE ARMY'S "HEAVY EQUIPMENT"—These elephants, carrying Viet-Nam troops toward the Communist lines in French Indo-China are the jungle equivalent of heavy tanks. Thick jungle underbrush makes modern tanks and equipment almost useless.

JUNGLE PILLBOX—Viet-Nam soldiers build jungle pillboxes against possible Communist assaults in the "hot" war in French Indo-China. On the right is a primitive wooden barricade. The troops wear their full uniforms—consisting of a pair of shorts.

WE INVITE YOU TO READ THE RECORD OF THIS BUSINESSMAN-CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Compare it with the record of his opponent and determine in your own mind which is the better qualified to serve all the people of Sedalia as their Mayor for the next four years.

This is the business record of Herb Studer:

Employed by Montgomery Ward Company in 1939 as head of a store department. Promoted to assistant manager within eight months. Promoted to store manager within two years. Continued in this position for three years until his enlistment in the U. S. Navy.

Following his return to civilian life, he again became store manager for Montgomery Ward. Resigned in 1947 to become purchasing agent for the Sedalia factory of the Pittsburgh-Corning Corporation, a $5,000,000 industry.

Terminated this employment in 1949 to realize an ambition of many years to establish his own real estate business. In one year's operation of this business, he has already achieved outstanding success.

This outstanding record is positive proof of the character, honesty, integrity, and ability of Herb Studer. This is the man we need to accomplish an efficient, economical and far-reaching program for the planned development of Sedalia.

Vote tomorrow for Herb Studer and for the other fine candidates who are running with him and who will support his program for the future of Sedalia.

MY SINCERE THANKS TO THE PEOPLE OF SEDALIA

At the close of this City campaign, I want to express my sincere gratitude for the warm reception I have received in my visits in your homes and at your work. I have faced a well-organized and highly financed opposition, but I am confident that you, the individual voters, will judge the various candidates for City offices on their individual merits and that you will choose wisely.

I would not close this campaign without extending my grateful appreciation to you hundreds of men and women of both political parties who not only have volunteered your personal support but also have gone out of your way to interest others in behalf of my candidacy for the office of Mayor. You have felt as I do that good city government should not be based on partisan politics. If I am elected your Mayor, we will work together to achieve the lasting benefits and improvements for Sedalia that I have outlined in the course of my campaign.

CONSULTING ENGINEERS
95th AND TROOST AVENUE
KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI
P. O. BOX 7088 DELMAR 4377

April 3, 1950

Honorable Julian H. Bagby
Mayor
Members of the City Council and
Members of the Citizens Advisory Committee
City of Sedalia, Missouri
Gentlemen:

We are pleased to comply with your request and are handing you herewith a brief report covering progress to date on the improvements being made to the sewerage system.

In accordance with a contract we had with your city for engineering services and dated September 18, 1945, we made studies of the sewerage system. Written reports were prepared outlining certain improvements to be made. The final report was prepared and presented to the Council in October, 1947. On the basis of the report a bond program was set up and on November 18, 1947, the citizens voted favorably on a $1,075,000.00 bond issue. This money was to be used to do all work necessary to make the improvements to the sewerage system.

One of the first things undertaken after voting the bonds was that of appointing a Citizens Advisory Committee of five members. Shortly thereafter, this committee approved the action of the Council in selecting the Burns and McDonnell Engineering Company to prepare construction plans and specifications. The engineering contract was approved by Resolution No. 54, passed by the Council and dated December 15, 1947.

Field information was gathered from which we started the preparation of plans and specifications. It was agreed upon by the Citizens Committee, the Council and the Engineers that the work should be done in the order of the need and importance to the community. Accordingly, we first prepared plans and specifications for improvements to the sewage treatment plants. The South Plant plans were completed first because of the urgent need there. While work on the plants was in progress, we also prepared plans and specifications for the necessary improvements to the Sanitary Sewer System. This was the second step in importance to the City. Considerable work was done on the Storm Sewer improvements (the third step in importance).

At a second meeting with the Citizens Committee, the Council and the Engineers, it was decided that work should be carried to completion on the sewage treatment plants, the sanitary sewers and as much of the storm water sewers as the funds would permit.

Accordingly plans and specifications were completed for all improvements to the three sewage treatment plants, the sanitary sewers, and part of the North Storm Water Sewer, which carries a large amount of sanitary sewage to the North Sewage Treatment Plant.

Competitive bids were received and all contracts were awarded to the lowest and/or best bidder. At each opening of the bids, members from the Citizens Advisory Committee and the Council were present. The Engineers carefully analyzed all bids and made their recommendations to the Council as to the awarding of the contracts. The Citizens Advisory Committee and the Council each approved the recommendations of the Engineers before the contracts were awarded.

All work originally contemplated on the Sanitary Sewerage System, and for which the bonds were voted, is under contract and will be completed.

The progress of the work in general is very satisfactory. It is expected that by the middle of this Summer all construction work will be completed and ready for acceptance by the city.
Respectfully submitted.

Brush Control In Pastures by Chemicals Use

Various Sprays and Methods for Use Are Given

The use of some of the new chemicals in controlling woody plants has shown a great deal of promise, according to the Agricultural Extension office. Thousands of people are interested in these methods of control on pasture land, land to be seeded to pastures, cropland, in fence rows, and other similar areas. However, not enough basic experimental data are available to make specific recommendations. The following procedures are based upon observations and results to date and represent suggestions rather than specific recommendations. They should be of value in trying out the merit of these new brush killers.

There are four different methods of application that have shown promise. The selection of a method should be based upon the problem involved, which may include size of the brush, time of year, cost and availability of materials, equipment available and the labor versus cash outlay involved.

Foliage Spray

The application of spray material in the leaves has shown promise of controlling most sprouts but applications over a two or three year period will likely be necessary to give a complete kill. It does lend itself to large area control both from the standpoint of labor and cost involved. Large brush does, however, pose a problem of proper equipment. The optimum time of application is also comparatively short and seems to have an important bearing on results secured. Present information indicates that the spraying is best done soon after the leaves are fully developed and before hot, dry weather causes a check in growth. In the fall just before the leaves start to lose their green color and at the time plant food is being translocated to the root system is another indicated favorable stage for foliage spraying.

Use: 1. 2,4-D at the rate of 2-3 pounds acid equivalent per acre can be used on pure stands of buckbrush, willow, sumac.

2. 2,4,5-T at the rate of 2-3 pounds acid equivalent per acre can be used on Osage orange or brambles.

3. 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T mixtures usually on a 50-50 basis should be used on mixed stands. 2-3 pounds per acre of acid equivalent should be used.

4. Ammate. 3/4 to 1 pound per gallon of water. Enough should be applied to wet the foliage thoroughly. Ammate is very effective on large brush but it may kill the grass and it is rather expensive to use on large areas. Big brush may require 150-200 gallons of spray per acre.

In general small brush may be sprayed with tractor sprayers at 10-15 gallons spray per acre—(2,4-D, 2,4,5-T or mixtures of the two) but larger brush requires much larger quantities of water to give adequate coverage.

Dormant Spray

Frequently it is not convenient to spray during the growing season. Further if pastures could be sprayed in the dormant period legumes might thus escape serious damage. Spraying with a fairly high concentration, the proper chemicals in oil have proven effective on dormant brush. This is probably not practical on large brush.

Use: 1. 2,4,5-T. 1/4 pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

2. 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D (50-50 mixture). 1/4 to 1/2 pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

Use enough spray to give thorough coverage. Low pressure-low volume sprayer most desirable.

Basal Spray

Since the dormant spray is not very practical for large brush some other approach to dormant application for larger material seems desirable. The spraying of the base of standing brush from the ground up to around 12 inches has given very promising results. So far the spray has been applied completely around the base and only trees from 12-12 inches on down in diameter have been treated. Indications are that this method can be applied at anytime. The bary should be thoroughly wetted but runoff isn't desirable.

Use: 1. 2,4,5-T. 1/4 pint 40% material or equivalent in per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

2. 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D (50-50) mixture. 1/4 to 1/2 pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

The material may be sprayed or painted on the desired area.

Stump Spray or Smear

Over three years results indicate that a high percentage (80-85%) of stumps properly treated immediately after cutting will not resprout. Since most areas need to be treated before any fertilization or seeding can be done this seems to be a very practical and economical way to use chemicals.

Use: 1. 2,4,5-T. 1/4 pint 40% 2,4,5-T in one gallon of kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

2. 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T. 1/4 to 1/2 pint of a 40% (50-50) mixture in one gallon of kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

3. Ammate. 4 pounds Ammate to one gallon of water. Use during growing season, may not be effective in cold weather.

One of the above solutions should be painted or sprayed on stumps—preferably 10 to 12 inches in diameter or smaller—cut as close to the ground as possible as soon after the cutting as practical. Apparently a wait of a few hours between cutting and applying the chemical reduces the percentage of kill.

Ammate and 2,4,5-T have given equally good results during the growing season, but 2,4,5-T has given more consistent results when used in the dormant season.

The 2,4-D-2,4,5-T mixture doesn't seem to be quite as effective as the straight 2,4,5-T but can be used where straight 2,4,5-T is unavailable. The concentration should go up to compensate for the lower content of 2,4,5-T.

At the present time, only the Ester type of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T are recommended for use in brush control work.

Summer Plans For 4-H Events

Recreation And Other Activities Been Arranged

The Pettis County 4-H Council met for its quarterly meeting on Tuesday evening March 28 with 74 leaders and junior council members present.

Prior to calling the meeting to order the council song leader, Miss Alberta Runge, lead the council in group singing. The meeting was called to order by the president Emmett Fairfax, leading the group in repeating the National 4-H club pledge. Twenty four clubs answered roll call by telling what their club is doing to secure parent cooperation. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Nomah Dean Snow, and approved by the members.

The president discussed the plans for the annual recreation night program to be held April 15, and appointed a committee to be in charge of recreation with Miss Anna Lee Harvey as chairman, and a committee to be in charge of refreshments. The council moved to hold a picnic for council members on June 20 at Liberty Park, and a committee to be in charge was appointed by the president. Plans for a 4-H softball league were discussed and a committee was appointed to meet with the county agents to work out the details.

Camp July 21-24

Mr. Phifer announced that enrollments are due in the office by April 1 and that all club members interested in scholarships and trips should make application prior to May 1. Mr. Phifer also announced that the 4-H camp at Knob Noster will be held from July 21 to 24 and that deposits for camp will be accepted between April 10 to 24.

The revised score cards for the Dorothy Bacon Plaque were distributed.

Miss Watkins gave a discussion on how 4-H clubs may observe Rural Life Sunday to be held on May 21. She also announced the officers training meeting to be held April 8th.

Mr. Otis Thornburn of the Missouri Conservation Commission was the guest speaker for the evening. Mr. Thornburn's topic was "Wildlife Conservation in Your Community," in addition he showed a color film on Tulip Culture.

After adjournment, Anna Lee Harvey led the group in several action songs and games. The next meeting will be June 20.

Save your health with a Flow-Ting Hydraulic Tractor seat! It's like riding on deep-stacked goose feathers. Fits 95% of tractors.

Flow-Ting is the only hydraulic seat that features vertical, free-floating cushioning. No "watering" — no "boat-rocking" sideways. 3-second adjustment (without tools) to your weight — plus super-easy 4-point suspension.

Flow-Ting "floats" you in health-protecting comfort across rough terrain or uneven tillage by combination spring-hydraulic action. Safe, strong, long-lasting. Low in cost — easy to install. Thousands in use. Come in and try Flow-Ting. NOW — portable, under-seat tool boxes for your FLOW-TING.

Training Meet For 4-H Officers

A training meeting for 4-H club presidents, vice presidents, secretary - treasurers, parliamentarians, and reports will be held this coming Saturday, April 8th. This training meeting will give the 4-H officers an opportunity to receive instructions that will help them fulfill the responsibility of the office they hold. As the success of a club is largely dependent upon its officers they have a responsibility and owe it to their clubs to do the best job possible.

The presidents, vice presidents and parliamentarians will meet in the Sedalia public library and the secretary-treasurer and reporters will meet in the assembly room of the courthouse. The meeting will start at 2 p. m.

Following the training meeting the group will be taken on a tour through the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspaper company.

The corn borer is rearing its ugly head again. And Virgil Burk, extension entomologist at the Missouri College of Agriculture, says Missouri farmers may be faced with the biggest corn borer infestation ever.

But he says there are some things you can do to control this threat. First, he says that you can reduce the number of borers greatly by clean plowing before May 1. The borers will work their way to the surface but will die of exposure or be killed if there is no trash on the ground to protect them.

Burk recommends that you wait until May 15 to plant your corn if possible, as the next step in your corn borer control program. The corn planted on this date will escape damage from one brood of borers and greatly reduce damage from a second brood. If moderate infestations develop later, Burk recommends that you apply an insecticide.

Entries By May 1 For Camps, Scholarships

Each year numerous college scholarships in Agriculture and Home Economics are awarded to boys and girls engaged in 4-H club work and who plan to enter college in the fall. Any 4-H boy or girl who plans to enter college this year may make application for these scholarships. The applications forms are available at the County Extension Office and must be filled out prior to May 1. The following 4-H scholarships are being awarded in Missouri this year: Six Wildlife Conservation Scholarships of $150 each to the University of Missouri; given by Edward K. Love; Three Fire Prevention Scholarships of $200 each to any Land Grant College, by the Farm Underwriters Association; Two Dairy Scholarships of $150 each to the University of Missouri; by the National Dairy Products Corporation; Two Watkins Scholarships of $100 each, based upon the members general 4-H club record to the University of Missouri; Six Kroger Scholarships of $200 to the University of Missouri.

All of the scholarships with the exception of those awarded by the Kroger Company are based on the applicants achievements in 4-H club work. The Kroger scholarships are available to any graduate of an accredited high school and are awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement in high school as well as on leadership qualities demonstrated in school, church and youth organization. Applications for Kroger scholarships can be made directly to the Dean of the Missouri College of Agriculture, through the County Extension Office or through school officials.

Applications for both the National 4-H club camp and the American Youth Foundation camp must also be made prior to May 1. Four trips to the National 4-H Camp to be held in Washington D. C. from June 14-21 will be awarded to two boys and two girls from Missouri. The Missouri Chain Store Council will provide $5 dollars to the delegates elected to attend this camp.

Four trips to the American Youth Foundation camp, Shelby, Michigan, will also be awarded to two 4-H boys and two 4-H girls from Missouri this year. The girls camp will be held from July 31 to August 13 and the boys camp from August 14 to 27. The Danforth Foundation and Missouri Ruralist will provide $50.00 to each of the 4 delegates selected to attend this camp.

Delegates to both camps will be selected on the basis of their 4-H achievements, supplemented by personal interviews.

ISLAND DWELLERS MEET CENSUS TAKER — After a journey by Coast Guard cutter, census taker Helen Mabbott lines up almost all of the inhabitants of Farallon Island to be counted. In all she found nine men, five women and five children.

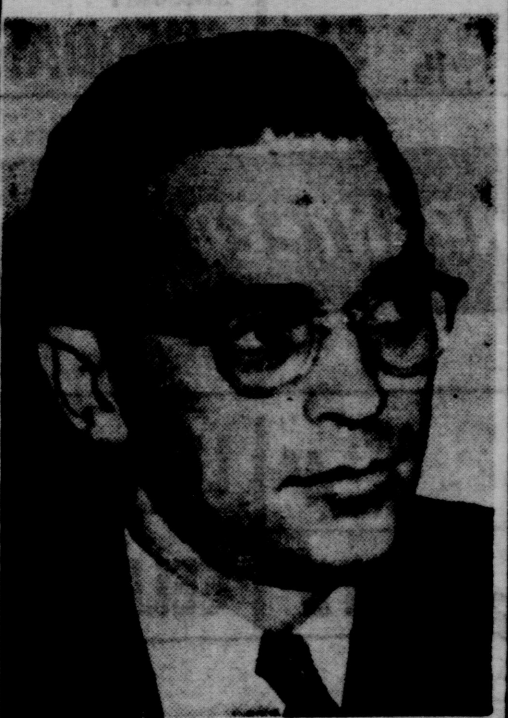

CENSUS TAKER AH-OY!—At Farallon Island, 30 miles off San Francisco's Golden Gate, census taker Helen Mabbott, together with lunch and crew, is lifted from the surf onto a pier. The census enumerator found 19 persons on the island, and—after recovering from seasickness—made the necessary entries in her census book.

5th. Daniel R. Blount, of St. Louis, of the Public Relations department of the International Shoe company will speak. Mayor Jones expressed a desire for the cooperation and support of the B.P.W. club. Mrs. N. L. Yankee gave a story on "Hound Dog Man" by Fred Gibson.

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran church met Thursday evening for its regular meeting. There were 39 members present. The meeting opened with singing a song and scripture reading by Pastor Delventhal. Final plans were made to take care of all the members of St. John's Choral club of Winfield, Kas. They will give a concert at the church Saturday evening, after which they will be guests until Sunday morning. A very interesting letter was read from the Ladies Aid's adopted European orphan. A reading, "The Proper Observance of Lent" was given by Mrs. Elbert Vogelsmeier. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Hugo Eckhoff, Mrs. George Elsner, Mrs. J. E. Elsner, Mrs. R. L. Missouri Recreation Workshop Announced
The Missouri Recreation workshop will hold its fifth annual meeting, May 27 to June 2, at the Lake of the Ozarks State Park. This workshop affords anyone interested in recreation—preachers, veteran instructors, potential rural youth organizers, 4-H leaders, school teachers, sportsmen, home economics club game leaders and others—a wonderful opportunity to gain experience and knowledge about the type of recreation in which they are most interested.

The workshop will provide opportunities for recreation and training in handicraft, games, folk dances, plays, fishing, swimming, nature study, folk lore and singing. It also makes it possible to share and give of their talents to the cause of wholesome recreation. The workshop is designed to make possible a learning situation under the most pleasant of outdoor circumstances and might well be said, "An opportunity to learn while vacationing."

Since registration is limited to 100, anyone interested should inquire at the County Extension office for further information and an application blank.

Shorthorn Breeders Association Met
Shorthorn Breeders from Saline, Pettis, Cooper, Howard and Chariton County met Friday, March 24, in Marshall. The group voted to establish The Central Missouri Shorthorn Breeder's Association. Temporary officers and a board of directors were elected to procure a charter and to draw up temporary by-laws. Officers elected from Pettis county were John M. Sneed, Jr., Sedalia, vice president and Tom Harvey, Hughesville, director.

All breeders and junior breeders interested in membership in this association are urged to contact your county agent for further information.

Past History of Road Battles In the State of Missouri

By Larry Hall

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2—(P)—Thirty years and a good many millions of dollars ago, Missouri started its state highway system.

The period spans the era when the automobile developed from the old Ford Model-T to the chrome-spun, high priced, streamlined cars of today.

During that time there have been storms aplenty as the road system grew from a puny infant to a lusty giant.

And most of the fighting was about money. Poke a taxpayer in the region of the pocketbook and it's axiomatic you'll get a yelp of pain. He may even fight back.

The latest in a long series of Missouri road battles is in the last round now. Voters register their decision in a special referendum election Tuesday on increasing the present two cent gasoline tax to four cents and using one cent for low type rural roads.

Let's take a look at what has gone before.

Oldtimers Remember

Oldtimers may remember how things were before we had a state road system. You had to be a pretty hardy character to start out across country in those days. What few roads there were depended almost entirely on local financing.

Then, in 1920, the voters approved a constitutional amendment calling for a $80,000,000 bond issue. The so-called centennial road law followed and the state system was under way.

The first paving project was completed Dec. 17, 1920. It was an 18-foot wide slab of concrete on U. S. 66, running a little ways from Joplin in both directions.

Today the present mileage on highways of the major state system totals 8,369.

First surfaced route across the state was U. S. 40. The final stretch, east from Columbia, was finished in 1927. This same section is now under contract for rebuilding.

Had Approved Income

Meanwhile, in 1924, the voters had approved a permanent source of income for highways by passing a two-cent a gallon gasoline tax. Increasing that tax is the issue next Tuesday.

And in 1928 the people approved a second bond issue for $75,000,000. As of April 1, unpaid bonds amounted to $38,000,000 and unpaid interest to $4,056,250. The debt is expected to be cleared up by 1957.

The second bond issue was the signal for starting the supplementary or farm-to-market road system, tying in with major routes. Missouri now has 9,871 miles in its farm-to-market network.

The first three farm-to-market projects were completed almost together. The first graded and surfaced section according to state highway department records was 3.484 miles on Route A, Stone county, finished Aug. 4, 1930. A section of 4.525 miles on Route A, Webster county, from U. S. 60 north was finished Aug. 7. And 9.055 miles on Route B, Clay county, from Liberty to Kearney was finished the next day.

Five Proposals

Since 1938, five proposals in a row to increase the gasoline tax have been knocked down by the voters. Most recent was the Curry constitutional amendment in 1948 for a three and a half cent tax. It was defeated by 232,637 votes.

The latest proposal, before the voters Tuesday, is to double the present two cent tax which produced $19,320,947 in last fiscal year. The highway department estimates the extra two cents will mean a net gain of about $16,000,000 in revenue.

Proceeds of one cent, or a net of about $8,000,000, are pledged by the highway commission's promise to be spent for low type rural roads. The money would go to the commission. A bipartisan advisory committee of four, including two county judges, would help the commission decide how to spend it. The advisory committee would be appointed by the governor.

Commission's Authority

One-fourth of the new low type rural road funds would have to be allotted in the ratio of a county's area to the state's area. One-fourth would be in the ratio of the county's population to the state's population. The other one-half would be allotted at the commission's discretion.

If the commission wanted to, the bill gives it power to withhold rural road funds from any county that failed to levy a road and bridge tax of at least 35 cents for each $100 assessed valuation. (For Jackson and St. Louis counties the minimum requirement would be a 12 cent tax.)

The highway department has not estimated how much mileage the extra revenue would build.

It's an Old Story

Rain Making Tried for 10,000 Years

ERSATZ LIGHTNING was tried in the 1880s when balloons sparked off showers.

SNAKES ALIVE were used by Hopi Indians in their ritual dances for rain.

By SHERRY BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Attempts to make rain—something New York is about to begin in hopes of filling its reservoirs—have been going on at least 10,000 years. Of course, it's new to spend $50,000 to seed clouds with dry ice and chemicals to quench a city's thirst. But man's dream of rain making is an old story.

Primitive man tried to make rain as soon as he had crops to water.

First he tried magic. The best rain maker of a tribe often became chief. It was a good job, except when he failed to bring rain he often was killed.

Wierd Rites Tried

Most of the rites hinged on sprinkling or pouring out water. The Omaha Indians, for instance, dumped water and then sucked up the mud and blew it from their mouths to imitate spray. But in Java, Australia and other places they beat each other until blood flowed to imitate rain.

Or the rain maker might take a bath. The Arabs used to toss their holy man into a pool when they wanted rain. In South Africa grass and leaf-clad women sang ribald songs while they cleaned the wells.

The rites of the Hopi Indians in which they dance with rattlesnakes in their mouths are known to most Americans. That, too, is a rain making ceremony.

Twins, frogs, black animals, were among the things some people thought helped bring rain. These became the center of the rites. Or they might call upon their dead. Orinoco Indians scattered the ashes of relatives a year after death as a rain charm.

Men also appealed to their gods. Zeus in Greece was a rain god, among other things, as was Jupiter in Rome. Or they might become angry at their gods after a long drought. As late as 1893 in Sicily, images of saints were turned to the wall, stripped, thrown into pools and otherwise abused.

Smoke Clouds Prescribed

South American Indians also burned grass in a drought, thinking the smoke would rise and form clouds. Very early men believed that battles caused rain. This was supposed to be due to the noise or to the blood and sweat evaporating and forming clouds. Or the gods were supposed to want to cleanse the battle field.

When guns came to be used, the smoke and concussion was supposed to bring rain. This was taken seriously even in the United States. Between 1890 and 1893 Congress spent $19,000 trying to make rain by sending up balloons and kites with explosives. Some of the experiments were near Washington, but most of them were in Texas.

A series of dry years started in the United States in 1891. This set off a wave of rain makers with secret formulas. Frank Melbourne, supposed to be an Australian, gained reputa as a rain maker near Canton, Ohio. Then Goodland, Kas., called him. He set up a two-story building and let fumes of his secret formula escape through a vent in the roof. It rained and he collected.

In Australia in 1903 zinc was put in sulphuric acid. Hydrogen was thus generated in an attempt to make rain.

"Mystery Chemicals Used"

In 1905 Charles Hatfield collected $1,000 for making rain in Southern California. He released mystery chemicals from a tower. He operated all over western United States and is even said to have gone to Alaska.

Another rain making surge came in the early 1920's. This time it was thought rain could be made by seeding clouds with electrified sand. In one test Army planes seeded clouds over McCook Field, Dayton Ohio. They are said to have produced a small shower.

Since dry ice has worked, all that seems necessary now is enough clouds of the right kind and enough ice.

Dorman Smith Awarded Headliners' Club Medal

NEA Artist Honored for "Consistently Outstanding Editorial Cartoons"

DORMAN H. SMITH: A jump ahead of the news.

By NEA Service
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—(NEA)—Dorman H. Smith, chief editorial cartoonist for NEA Service, has been awarded the 16th annual National Headliners' Club medal for "consistently outstanding editorial cartoons."

The news reached him at his home in Cleveland, where he is recovering from an illness that has kept him from his drawing board for several weeks. He expects to resume his cartoons soon.

Smith is a veteran of more than 30 years as an artist, and is today one of the nation's most-widely published cartoonists. His daily interpretations of domestic and international news appears in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital and newspapers, magazines and the press wires diligently each day, and follows up with research before starting to draw his cartoons. Serious thinking, yet cleverly humorous, Smith must always keep a jump ahead of the news, for he draws his cartoons a day or two in advance of publication.

The artist enjoys a busman's holiday in his avocation—water color painting. His work has won a number of prizes at Cleveland's annual May Show and he is a member of the Cleveland Society of Artists and San Francisco's famed Bohemian Club. Friends are treated annually to a Christmas card featuring a Smith lithograph of a scene near his home.

Dorman Smith is a self-taught artist, and sold his first drawing to the old Life magazine when he was 17. He continued cartooning for humor magazines while working in the steel mills of his native Ohio to earn enough to get married.

In 1921 he joined NEA Service

"Queerest Bird We Ever Saw."

more than 700 other newspapers in the U.S. and Canada.

The award is one of several presented to newspapermen in various fields by the National Headliners' Club of Atlantic City "to honor those behind the news." Smith's cartoons have previously won him many honors, including the Sigma Delta Chi award for "outstanding editorial cartooning" in 1946.

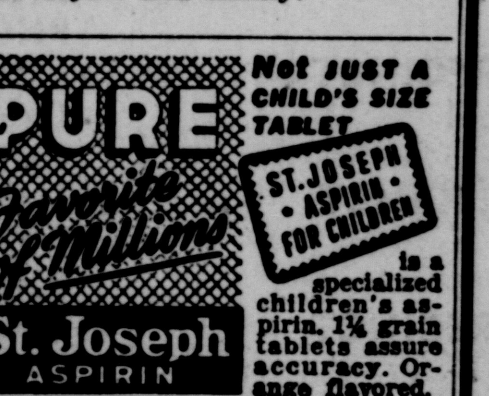

The cartoonist works in a studio-office at the Cleveland headquarters of NEA, the world's largest newspaper picture and feature organization. He reads

"Shucks, Nobody'll Believe I'm an Angel."

Ben Hogan Is All Set For Masters

Golfers Arrived In Augusta Today For Tournament

By Sterling Slapper

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 3—(P)—The discomfiting story of Ben Hogan's hot golf at the Augusta National was the greeting for the main installment of golfers today when they arrived for the Masters tournament.

Hogan's golf was interrupted last year by a bus accident at a time when Sammy Snead, Cary Middlecoff and others couldn't stop him. A big highway bus and Hogan's car tangled in West Texas. Three practice rounds in four days at the National indicate that Ben's steadiness, stamina and shotmaking are sharpening towards championship shape. They get the major test Thursday through Sunday.

Little Ben's putter acted up occasionally yesterday but he still shot a par 72. Saturday he got a 68 and Thursday, one of the best rounds of golf ever shot over the Augusta National—a 66.

Hogan has been practicing for the Masters while the main body of the professional golfing troupe played the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C.

"I feel I'm as near as possible to top physical shape. I feel fine," Hogan has won every major title in America except the Masters, some of them many times. He's been in the Masters money winning bracket seven times, but victory has always eluded him.

most important, is the caller. A good caller adds a great deal of flavor to a dance, and helps it run smoothly and efficiently. But you, as a dancer, have to remember one thing: You must do what the caller tells you, and when he tells you to do it.

If you're having a fine time, swinging your purty little gal, and the caller wants you to switch to the corner lady, and you look over at the corner lady and decide she has buckteeth and you'd rather not—do it anyway. If you keep dancing with your partner, when everyone else is switching, you'll mess up the whole pattern and spoil everyone else's evening.

Do what the caller says; he's the boss of the square dance. And remember that the caller's patter is a rhythmic affair. He won't come right out and say, "Tom Jones, take two steps forward and then meet your partner, Mary Smith, and turn her around a few times." He'll keep his patter in rhyme, like this: "First gent move right up and then, swing your own sweet gal again." It means the same, but you may have to do a little interpreting the first few times.

The second element of a successful square dance is the band, or, to be technical about it, the orchestra. Don't expect smooth, even music from the typical barn dance orchestra. The musicians are usually having a good time, too, and they'll clown around a little. Country style music and square dancing go together like ham and eggs, and you can't have a good square dance without real country music.

There will be a strong rhythmic beat played by at least one of the instruments—a guitar or a bass or a piano or a drum. Keep time to that rhythm; all the steps are built around a certain number of measures that the caller follows—and you have to follow it, too.

And the last of the three elements is, of course, the dancers themselves. That's you. Remember one important thing—square dancing is pretty strenuous exercise. Wear comfortable clothes. Girls should wear low-heel shoes, full skirts so they can whirl about energetically, and blouses that allow free action. And boys should be in comfortable clothes, too. But don't dress sloppily—just comfortably.

Now all you have to do is go out and have a swell time.

Dennis Wails For Freedom

The corners of his mouth turned down in despair, two-year-old Dennis Seager wails for rescue after an ill-fated adventure at Kansas City. He jammed his right foot down a pipe near his home and became trapped. Patrolman Morris Towns, who tries to comfort the boy here, called water department employees, who came to Dennis' rescue. They dug a hole, broke the pipe, and set Dennis free. Omar President (right) works to free the boy from his trap. (AP PHOTO)

Stricter Laws to Combat Spying

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—The House un-American activities committee proposed Saturday a crackdown on embassies it said are "a focal point of Communist espionage and propaganda."

The committee also urged stricter laws to combat spying and treason, "utmost teamwork" instead of "petty rivalry" in government moves against Reds, and closer checks on defense plant workers.

The recommendations were made in a committee report to the House on activities last year. For the most part, the report presented thumbnail summaries of committee hearings and investigations. The major attention, it said, was on Communist activity in the field of spying, since "the committee believes that espionage is one of the most deadly weapons in the hands of the American Communists at the present time."

"Experience during the past five years," the committee said, "has demonstrated that the embassies of Communist-dominated countries constitute a focal point of Communist espionage and propaganda. Such activity should be limited by proper safeguards sternly enforced."

Tomorrow Election Day in City

Interest Shown in Campaign Indicates An Unusually Heavy Vote Will be Cast

Hundreds of Sedalians will go to the polls tomorrow to cast their ballots for city officials, the special gas tax law, and the special school levy.

The polls will be open from 6:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. in 16 different places, scattered throughout the four wards of the city of Sedalia. Voters are urged by party leaders to cast their votes early in the day.

Indications show that the vote will be heavy in this election. An additional 870 persons have become qualified to vote in Sedalia, since the last election. This morning, 79 absentee ballots have already been cast at the city hall. A total of 20,354 persons are qualified to vote in Sedalia, according to the registration books.

Firemen Knew How to Handle Five-Year-Old

ASHAWA, Ont., April 3—(AP)—It takes psychology to handle a woman, even if she is only 5.

Little Marlene Johnson yesterday locked herself in the bathroom. After two hours pleading, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson called in the firemen. The chief and several others pleaded in vain.

Then Oscar Thompson, a fireman with a child of his own, stepped up.

"If you come out, we'll give you a ride on our big, red fire truck."

No answer.

"We'll ring the bell and blow the siren and people will run out of the way."

The door flew open.

"When?"

Marlene got her ride.

New Gas Law, Its Meaning To This Area

Will be Explained By Governor Here After Broadcast

Governor Forrest Smith will end his campaign on the proposed gas tax law, in Sedalia tonight, at which time he will make a state-wide broadcast from the Pettis county circuit room at 8:15 p. m.

Gov. Smith and others from Jefferson City are expected to arrive in Sedalia shortly before a dinner to be held at 6:15 o'clock this evening in the Magnolia room of the Bothwell hotel in his honor. The dinner will be attended by Gov. Smith, the board of directors of the Sedalia Optimist club and Mayor Julian H. Bagby and Noel Twest, president of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

Following the dinner, those present will adjourn to the circuit court room, where the Governor will give an address on the proposed gas tax law, in Sedalia tonight, at which time he will make a state-wide broadcast from the Pettis county circuit room at 8:15 p. m.

These stations will carry Smith's 15-minute speech at 8:15 tonight to all parts of the state, with the speech originating through KDRO, Sedalia.

L. D. S. Conference Opens INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 3.—(AP)—A six-day general conference of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints opened here yesterday.

Speakers at opening day sessions included Israel A. Smith, president of the church, and Bishop G. Leslie DeLapp.

Communication services for about 13,000 persons marked the conference opening.

How Sedalia is Divided And Where to Vote

Four Wards Are Divided Into Sixteen Precincts

For voting purposes, the city of Sedalia is divided into four different sections, each section being classified as a ward, and included in each ward are three to five precincts, depending upon the size of the ward. There are 16 precincts in the four wards, and in each precinct is a voting place, or otherwise, one of the 16 places the citizens of this city will have to go to cast their votes in the general city election, Tuesday.

For the benefit of newcomers who may not know what ward they live in, the following explanation may help to describe what ward one would be classified in:

All residents living on the north side of Fourth street and north thereof and the west side of Lamine avenue and west thereof are in the first ward. This ward is then divided into three precincts.

Second Ward Residents If residents live on the north side of Fourth street and the east side of Lamine avenue, they are residents of the second ward. The ward is divided into three precincts.

The third ward residents include those residing on the south side of Fourth street and the east side of Lamine avenue. There are five precincts in this ward.

The fourth ward is on the south side of Fourth street and the west side of Lamine avenue. This ward has five precincts.

Any person living outside of the city limits, even though they operate businesses inside the city limits, are not eligible to vote in the city election.

Where to Vote

Voting places for the four wards and various precincts:

First ward—1st precinct, Engine House No. 2, located between Second and Third streets on Kentucky avenue; 2nd precinct, Mark Twain school; 3rd precinct, Lincoln school.

Second Ward—1st precinct, Engine House No. 1, 817 East Fourth street; 2nd precinct, 313 East Jefferson street; 3rd precinct, Jefferson school.

Third ward—1st precinct, Washington school; 2nd precinct, Whitaker school; 3rd precinct, Potter's Grocery, 2118 East Broadway; 4th precinct, Central Business College; 5th precinct, Sixteenth street and Ingram avenue.

Fourth ward—1st precinct, Broadway school; 2nd precinct, Witte Barber Shop, 612 West Sixteenth street; 3rd precinct, Archias Floral Company; 4th precinct, Horace Mann school and 5th precinct, court house.

Section of Land Slides 700 Feet

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 3.—(AP)—A 300-foot section of land slid more than 70 feet here yesterday, uprooting trees and endangering four houses.

The earth broke loose from a 250-foot ridge, moved down four feet and advanced to within 400 feet of the newest of the homes.

It continued to move slowly, but County Engineer Martin Smith said he believed a plateau would soon halt its progress. Winter rains were believed to have caused the section to shift.

Dies of Burns SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Jessie Harper, 57, died in a hospital today 18 hours after she apparently touched a match to her oil-soaked clothing at her Springfield home.

Hospital attendants said death came as a result of first, second and third degree burns.

Officers said the woman's husband, T. J. Harper, told them his wife had attempted to take her life in a similar manner about 7 years ago.

1,000 Pilgrims Expected to Visit Jerusalem Holy Week

By Fred J. Zusy JERUSALEM, April 3—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 Christian pilgrims from the United States and other countries are expected inside the old walled city of Jerusalem this week for holy week observances.

This compares with only a handful able to take part last year due to the tense situation in the divided city. The old city with most of the holy shrines is under control of Arab Jordan. The new city is mostly held by the Israelis.

Yesterday a procession of 6,000 made the traditional pilgrimage into the old walled city from the Mount of Olives, which Jesus crossed on his way into Jerusalem for the dramatic events that culminated in his crucifixion and ascension.

An estimated 15,000 watched the procession in sunny weather. It was one of the largest crowds in years. The nearby Judean hills were covered with thousands of red poppies that flowered after warm spring rains.

A steady round of holy week services is in prospect. The Greek Orthodox, Armenian, Syrian and Coptic Christians will observe Easter Sunday on the same day as the Roman Catholic and Protestant faiths this year. The observances usually come on different days because of the different calendars used.

The 1,000 pilgrims are expected from the United States, France, Italy, Philippines, Egypt and other places. Many of them also made the holy year pilgrimage to Rome.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, April 3—

(AP)—The Census Bureau today reported there were 561,000,000 fewer unemployed in March than in February.

WASHINGTON, April 3—

(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall spoke out today against "proposals to emasculate and reduce" the European recovery program.

But the former secretary of state said that the four-year plan which bears his name should end on the scheduled date, June 30, 1952, adding:

"I feel that if this date is settled and clear it will spur the work of the European leaders and people to accomplish the extremely difficult task ahead of lifting themselves above the need for our financial assistance."

MUNICH, Germany, April 3—(AP)—Hermann Goering's buried treasure, once reported to be worth a million dollars, turned out today to be worth less than 10,000 deutschmarks (about $2,500).

The "treasure" was found last Friday buried in Veldenstein castle, near Nuerberg. The castle was once the home of Goering. Adolf Hitler's No. 2 Nazi, who committed suicide to avoid hanging as a war criminal.

WASHINGTON, April 3—

(AP)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) demanded today that Secretary Acheson make public a secret memorandum on Far Eastern policies given the state department by Owen Lattimore last summer. He said that if Acheson does not "it will be my duty as a United States senator to do so."

McCarthy fired his latest shot at Lattimore and Acheson in a statement issued at Bethesda (Md.) naval hospital where he is undergoing treatment for a sinus condition.

He has contended that Lattimore, a Johns Hopkins university professor, is (1) a Russian agent, and (2) the real architect of American foreign policy in the Far East.

MANILA, April 3—(AP)—Communist-led Hukbalahap raids today boosted the death toll to at least 68 in six days in Central Luzon.

Scores have been wounded and whole villages left in blackened ruins.

The army, placed in complete control of Luzon Saturday, was finding it hard to come face to face with the hit-and-run Huk.

Manila is almost in a state of siege. Soldiers and constabulary man guard posts outside the city. Suburban and city police check closely all travelers and traffic.

15-Year-Old Kills Father

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 3—

Ted Basham, 15-year-old miner, was asleep in a chair last night after a round of taverns when his 15-year-old son shot him fatally three times, police reported.

State Trooper S. E. Tribette said James Emerson Basham will be charged with the slaying as soon as his father is buried.

Trooper Tribette said the boy told him his father always "raised the devil" with the family after he had been drinking.

Basham came home last night about 8 o'clock after making the rounds and sat down in a living room chair. Mrs. Basham and a 12-year-old daughter were in the kitchen making candy. James went to the bedroom, got a .22 caliber rifle and fired. The first shot went into his father's brain.

The family lives in the mining town of Hansford, 18 miles north of here.

Film on Safety Shown The Rotary Club

Naugel Reports Scout Memorial Dedication July 4

Robert E. Davis of the Missouri Highway Patrol spoke on safety driving and showed films on the same subject at the regular noon luncheon meeting of the Sedalia Rotary today, with Oscar DeWolf the president, presiding.

Rev. Thomas W. Croxton gave the invocation and Rev. D. Warren Neal was the song leader. The program chairman, Lawrence Barnett, introduced the speaker.

The club received an invitation from the Lake of Ozarks Council, Boy Scouts of America, to attend the dedication of the Statue of Liberty on the grounds of the state capital in Jefferson City on April 14. Harry Naugel, reported that Otis Wiley and Z. Lyle Brown are the club representatives on the Boy Scout Statue of Liberty committee in Sedalia and the dedication ceremony will take place on July 4.

Meeting at Johns Home It was announced that the regular monthly meeting of the board of directors and the Aims and Objects committee will be held at the home of R. M. Johns, 624 West Seventh street, tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The following guests were introduced by Dr. A. L. Walters: Russell Rhodes, guest of Robert Johnson; M. L. Edwards, guest of Rev. Croxton; Heber Hunt and Don Burkhalter, guest of Louis Bahrenburg and Rotarian Joseph L. McClellan, Billings, Mont.

The junior Rotarians for the month of April will be James F. Walkins and Joe Mehl.

Lieutenant Governor Convolensing KANSAS CITY, April 3—(AP)—Lt. Gov. James T. Blair is resting in a hospital here while recovering from a light attack of flu.

He was admitted to the hospital Saturday night on the advice of a physician, who said he probably could be released tomorrow or the next day.

Blair was making a tour of Western Missouri in a campaign for the state gasoline tax increase which will be voted on tomorrow.

North Missouri Banker Dies BROOKFIELD, Mo., April 3—(AP)—H. S. (Dick) Johnson, widely known north Missouri banker and mayor of Brookfield, died today.

He was president of the Security State Bank here and of the Citizens Bank at Brownsville, Mo. At one time he was employed in the office of the state treasurer at Jefferson City.

The Weather

Showers tonight, low in upper thirties. Tuesday windy and colder, highest near 40.

Temperature in Sedalia vicinity: At 7:00 a. m. 45 degrees; 2:00 p. m. 43 degrees.

Rainfall up until 2:00 p. m. was .67 inch.

Lake of Ozarks: 8.9; rise .3.

Man Convicted Of Treason Leaves Boat

Few Hours Later Mysterious Sub Sighted Off Coast

AVALON, Catalina Island, California, April 3—(AP)—A man identified from a photograph as one convicted of wartime treason, vanishes from a small boat at sea.

A few hours later, a mysterious submarine is sighted off the southern California coast.

And the convict, tall, scarred Theodore Donay, 51, Detroit, is reported missing from his home since Wednesday.

These coincidences were pieced together today by authorities investigating the disappearance of a man who rented a boat here Saturday and never returned.

Constable K. McDavid said Ray Dodge, boat rental dock attendant, had identified an Associated Press wirephoto of Donay as his mysterious patron. A wallet left as security for the rented vessel contained a driver's license issued to Donay, McDavid said.

Search Begun Several hours after the man was due to return with the boat, a search was begun in waters surrounding this island 20 miles off the Los Angeles harbor. McDavid said the boat had its running lights on but the ignition was off when found eight miles northeast of Avalon. The boat contained only a clothing filled suitcase, he said.

The drifting vessel was found some 125 miles south of Point Arguello, where coast guardsmen reported seeing a surfaced submarine at 6:20 a. m. yesterday.

The navy said no American submarines were in the area at the time.

McDavid said officers had noted the coincidence of the two events, but there was "no concrete evidence" they were connected in any way.

Shows Up Second Time SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 3—(AP)—For the second time in five days, a mysterious submarine has been sighted off the California coast.

Coast guardsmen at the Point Arguello lifeboat station north of Santa Barbara saw what they believed to be a surfaced submarine eight miles off shore at 6:20 a. m. yesterday.

The navy, determining that no American submarines were in the area, sent planes aloft for a fruitless, all-day search.

A navy patrol plane reported sighting an unidentified submarine Wednesday near Eureka, Calif., some 600 miles north of Point Arguello. In this instance, too, no American submarines were in the area.

The navy pointed out, however, that under international law foreign submarines have the right to cruise anywhere in the open seas as long as they remain three miles from shore.

The navy called off the search for the Point Arguello submarine at 6 p. m. yesterday. It said visibility was poor due to fog and haze. There was no indication whether the search would be continued.

Jefferson City Scout to Switzerland JEFFERSON CITY, April 3—(AP)—Miss Majorie Ann Curtis has a little over three months to practice her Swiss vowels.

The 16-year-old Jefferson City high school junior was notified today she has been chosen one of four American Girl Scouts who get a free trip to Switzerland in July. The girls will stay from July 26 to Aug. 16 in the Girl Scouts' own chalet at Adelboden, Switzerland.

The brown-haired Jefferson City girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Curtis.

Council Expected to Meet And Adjourn The city council will meet in regular session at 7:30 o'clock tonight, but as has been the custom for several years on the night before elections the aldermen are expected to meet and adjourn until a later date.

Old Hell's Neck Woman Mayor NECK, Mo., April 3—(AP)—Old Hell's Neck will have a woman mayor tomorrow night.

Mrs. Nellie Drexelius, a housewife, is the only candidate for the job of running this one-time rough and ready mining town known in the Tri-State district as Hell's Neck.

Residents prefer their own version. They call it Neck City, feeling "perhaps that the addition of 'city' adds character."

Public service is the only incentive in running for office in this town of 400. All officials, including the town marshal get $1 a year.

Two aldermen also will be elected, giving the new woman mayor a council of four men.

Neck, 10 miles northwest of Carthage, was known as Hell's Neck for many years. The post office department, however, frowned on putting such a name in the postal guide and called it just plain Neck.

After serving as alderman and town clerk, Mrs. Drexelius was nominated for the post of mayor at a town convention, attended by both men and women. She'll be sworn in immediately after the election Tuesday night.

Ask Congress To Vote More For Airports

Sedalia Municipal Field Included Among Those Named

By James C. Munn AP Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—Congress is being asked to vote about $38,700,000 for improvement of the nation's airports in the year beginning July 1.

The item, already approved by the House appropriations committee, must be accepted by the House and Senate before going to President Truman in the omnibus appropriations bill for his signature.

Debate on the measure opened today in the House.

The committee figures are tentative. They may be changed or deleted by either the House or Senate.

Must Match Government Money Also, as a condition of the federal assistance, local sponsors of the improvements sought must match — in most cases — the government's contribution in part or in whole and in some cases must put up more than the government.

The proposed improvements range from acquisition of land to all types of construction essential to airports. All of the proposals have had the approval of the civil aeronautics administration, which submitted the figures to congress.

Projects, including the federal contribution, and the local sponsor's share (in brackets):

Missouri: Jefferson City Municipal, $100,000 ($100,000); Poplar Bluff Municipal, $80,000 ($85,000); Joplin Municipal, $80,000 ($50,000); Sikeston Municipal, $60,000 ($86,000); Louisiana Municipal, $23,000 ($30,000); Higginsville Municipal, $34,000 ($42,000); Sedalia Municipal, $69,000 ($81,000); Bismarck Municipal, $17,000 ($23,000); Cassville Municipal, $8,021 ($12,021); Kansas City Municipal, $500,000 ($470,000); and St. Louis Lambert-St. Louis $500,000 ($500,000) ($15,000).

A. P. Wire Editors Form Organization

SEDALIA, Mo., April 3.—(AP)—The Missouri Associated Press Wire Editors association was organized here yesterday at a meeting of editors from 14 newspapers.

C. W. Johnson, managing editor of Springfield Newspapers, Inc., was elected chairman; Tom Ferguson, managing editor of the Jefferson City Post-Tribune, and Miss Rosemary Burrows, news editor of the Sedalia Democrat and Capital, were named vice-chairmen.

The brown-haired Jefferson City girl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Curtis.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round Appalling Famine Shakes Communist China By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—Uncensored diplomatic cables show that an appalling famine, plus sweeping epidemics and a tide of unrest are shaking the new Communist government of China. On top of this, Russia—under pretext of aiding a sister state in distress—is sending soldiers and administrators to turn China into a complete satellite. It is a situation which could play squarely into our hands if we play our cards right.

The famine, now officially admitted by the Communists as a "calamitous situation" affects 80,000,000 people from Shanghai in the south to inner Mongolia in the north. Two million will die of starvation.

The famine was caused by floods that cut production in the fertile Yangtze valley 30 to 40 per cent, also blocked shipment of Manchurian grains to the central provinces and by withholding of crops by peasants. Farmers hid their grains and cut back growing after Communists grabbed as much as two-thirds of their crops.

Communist "thought" committees are now going through the villages and executing peasants who fail to turn over grain levies. In the cities, an "austerity movement" requires the Chinese to give up stocks of rice on the shelves.

Epidemics are out of control and rumor so rife that the Communists in Sikiang province claimed that reports of bubonic plague were "incorrect." Instead, their "epidemic prevention corps" identified the epidemic as meningitis.

Anti-Communist guerrillas are also active—especially in Kwantung province around Canton. Rebels in recent moves stripped power lines on the western outskirts of Canton. A band of 800 guerrillas attacked grain boats at Shinhui. Peasants are being secretly armed to defy the grain collectors. Throughout most of south China, heavy guards must be put around grain storage.

Amid this turmoil, an estimated 10,000 Soviet troops have arrived in China. Shanghai is now virtually a Russian-controlled city, with Soviet officers holding key spots in the local police force. Too much use of force, however, could boomerang against Moscow and play into the hands of the U.S.A., which once fed part of the Chinese population.

Senator Byrd vs. Farmer Byrd

Harry Byrd, the Dixiecrat Senator who makes political capital preaching economy, and Harry Byrd, the prosperous Virginia apple grower, should get acquainted.

In a recent speech, Senator Byrd attacked the school-lunch program. School lunches, he said, are items "the parents should pay for. It would cost only 20 to 25 cents a day."

But farmer Byrd made no hue or cry when the Commodity Credit Corporation bought 32,376 bushels of school-lunch apples in Frederick county, Virginia, where the Byrd apple farms are located. The apples were purchased between October 1949 and February 1950 to support prices and were distributed in the school-lunch program.

The price the government paid for the Frederick county apples was $1.70 a bushel through December and $1.80 in January and February. They were good apples, listed as U.S. number one, and though Senator Byrd did not sell any of his apples directly to the government, the price-support purchases are designed to keep apple prices firm, and without it farmer Byrd, the biggest apple-grower in the U.S.A., would have suffered.

What farmer Byrd may not have told Senator Byrd was that so many apples were purchased under the price-support program last year, they were even distributed to schools not normally taking part in the school-lunch program. In fact, the federal government last year spent $400,000 for the school-lunch program in Virginia, efficiently run by the Byrd machine.

A Little Child Shall Lead

Justice Sherman Minton can be quite caustic when he heckles government counsel regarding Tideland oil. But he didn't feel caustic the other day as he walked through the cool marble dignity of the Supreme Court, a wide-eyed 2-1/4-year-old boy clutching his finger.

The Supreme Court chamber was empty. But one light glowed softly in this scene of austere beauty, as Patrick Joseph Callanan drew his grandfather to a seat below the curved bench from which his grandfather sometimes heckles government counsel and said very softly:

"Now, granddaddy, we'll wait for Jesus."

Merry-Go-Round

"It's getting harder to find doctors who will practice in rural areas. With civilian hospitals overcrowded and ex-G.I.'s waiting to get into veterans hospitals, the Veterans Administration actually has 4,000 empty beds. The excuse is that trained medics can't be found to staff all hospitals. But the real reason is that the V.A. built hospitals so far out in the sticks that medical men won't take the assignments. . . .

George Love, president of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company, biggest in the nation, won't represent it in future contract negotiations with John L. Lewis. . . . Pipeline reports are that P.C.C.C. directors fear Lewis's raging resentment for Love may bring union reprisals against the company.

Dust Storms Point Up Need For Soil Conservation Plans

By Bruce Blossat

New dust storms sweeping priceless topsoil off unprotected farms in the western Great Plains lend a fresh urgency to calls for conservation.

A couple of years ago the nation saw quite a flurry of books deploring in alarming tones the wasting of U. S. natural resources, particularly our best soils. They caused a big stir for a while, and then in an almost inevitable reaction.

Critics, some of whom didn't like the gloomy mood of these books, sought to minimize the dangers. The fears were exaggerated, they said. American scientific ingenuity would keep us all in foodstuffs no matter what happened to our topsoil.

Some cited experiments indicating rich crops might be grown in the subsoil, the coarse layer lying beneath the fine topsoil so often washed or blown away. They suggested, too, that the expanding chemical age will turn up many new soil-enriching ingredients to add to present-day fertilizers. It was even hinted that subsoils thus built up would be better than the best topsoils.

It would be foolish to say these things will not happen. The chemical age is indeed producing many miracles, and tomorrow's discoveries might revolutionize agriculture speedily.

Yet the one thing all these rosy forecasts ignored was how much these possibly potent soil builders might cost. Farmers today are finding it expensive to doctor their lands with existing fertilizers on an increasing scale to offset mineral depletion caused by heavy cultivation through the war and postwar period. There's good reason to believe any new enriching elements might also prove costly.

The critics can't get away from the fact that good topsoil spread over the land to a depth of several inches is a tremendously valuable natural resource. If it is carried away by wind or water, its food-producing chemicals must be replaced or the stripped land becomes sterile and non-productive.

None of the critics was able to refute the documented facts of soil depletion. On that point the conservationists quoted government authorities with chapter and verse. Millions of tons of life-supporting soil lie useless today at the bottom of the oceans and bays where they were borne by silt-laden rivers. Other millions of tons have been caught up in swirling winds and deposited hundreds of miles away as worthless dust.

The dust storms of 1950 thus far are but a faint reminder of the tragic winds of the 1930's when thousands of farms were ruined. But maybe they'll help us to buckle down to the job of preserving the rich soil we still have. It's both cheaper and safer than counting on scientific wizardry to rescue us from folly.

Some cited experiments indicating rich crops might be grown in the subsoil, the coarse layer lying beneath the fine topsoil so often washed or blown away. They suggested, too, that the expanding chemical age will turn up many new soil-enriching ingredients to add to present-day fertilizers. It was even hinted that subsoils thus built up would be better than the best topsoils.

It would be foolish to say these things will not happen. The chemical age is indeed producing many miracles, and tomorrow's discoveries might revolutionize agriculture speedily.

Yet the one thing all these rosy forecasts ignored was how much these possibly potent soil builders might cost. Farmers today are finding it expensive to doctor their lands with existing fertilizers on an increasing scale to offset mineral depletion caused by heavy cultivation through the war and postwar period. There's good reason to believe any new enriching elements might also prove costly.

Vandenberg's Loss Leaves Critical Gap to be Filled

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg's recent proposal for a nonpartisan commission to study foreign policy points up how sorely missed in the Senate these days is the voice of the Republicans' leading foreign affairs spokesman. Not only his party but the whole country is the loser.

Presumably ill health will compel Vandenberg to keep to the sidelines most of the time from now until his term expires in 1952. He does not intend to run again.

There's no doubt Vandenberg is the man who made the bi-partisan foreign policy a working formula in Congress. That service has been of inestimable value to the nation at a time in history when the United States needed to show a united front to a world plagued by communism.

Vandenberg was uniquely fitted for this role. He dedicated himself in recent years almost entirely to foreign issues. As a specialist he gained stature in the eyes of both parties. His remarks took on added weight because he was not constantly embroiled in the daily verbal brawling on domestic questions.

Strangely, too, his influence seemed the greater because he was an isolationist before he was an internationalist. His colleagues felt in him something of the fervor of the convert. His dramatic shift, made in response to the realities of atomic and guided missile warfare, was the real beginning of his leadership in the Senate.

Within the Senate Republican group there developed a sort of division of labor, Vandenberg carrying the burden in the foreign field and Senator Taft piloting domestic policy.

Though many of his colleagues didn't go the whole way toward sharing his internationalist views, the Michigan senator often was eloquent enough to persuade them to follow him on key matters like the Marshall Plan and the foreign arms aid program.

Up to now no other Senate Republican has showed similar power to command the support of his party colleagues for a broadly internationalist foreign program. The internationalists in both parties, who constitute an overwhelming majority in the Senate, are regretful that no one is yet rising to take Vandenberg's place.

Hopes had once been pinned on Sen. John Foster Dulles, veteran of many an international parley, but his defeat in New York last fall dashed them.

Some talk of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as a likely successor, but thus far he has not made great strides toward establishing himself as a foreign affairs leader.

It will be unfortunate if strong new leadership does not emerge to fill the gap Vandenberg is leaving. For the United States has not yet won the cold war. It still has great need of presenting to Europe and the rest of the world a single, determined front.

Up to now no other Senate Republican has showed similar power to command the support of his party colleagues for a broadly internationalist foreign program. The internationalists in both parties, who constitute an overwhelming majority in the Senate, are regretful that no one is yet rising to take Vandenberg's place.

Hopes had once been pinned on Sen. John Foster Dulles, veteran of many an international parley, but his defeat in New York last fall dashed them.

Some talk of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts as a likely successor, but thus far he has not made great strides toward establishing himself as a foreign affairs leader.

It will be unfortunate if strong new leadership does not emerge to fill the gap Vandenberg is leaving. For the United States has not yet won the cold war. It still has great need of presenting to Europe and the rest of the world a single, determined front.

There's no doubt Vandenberg is the man who made the bi-partisan foreign policy a working formula in Congress. That service has been of inestimable value to the nation at a time in history when the United States needed to show a united front to a world plagued by communism.

Vandenberg was uniquely fitted for this role. He dedicated himself in recent years almost entirely to foreign issues. As a specialist he gained stature in the eyes of both parties. His remarks took on added weight because he was not constantly embroiled in the daily verbal brawling on domestic questions.

Strangely, too, his influence seemed the greater because he was an isolationist before he was an internationalist. His colleagues felt in him something of the fervor of the convert. His dramatic shift, made in response to the realities of atomic and guided missile warfare, was the real beginning of his leadership in the Senate.

Within the Senate Republican group there developed a sort of division of labor, Vandenberg carrying the burden in the foreign field and Senator Taft piloting domestic policy.

Though many of his colleagues didn't go the whole way toward sharing his internationalist views, the Michigan senator often was eloquent enough to persuade them to follow him on key matters like the Marshall Plan and the foreign arms aid program.

Up to now no other Senate Republican has showed similar power to command the support of his party colleagues for a broadly internationalist foreign program. The internationalists in both parties, who constitute an overwhelming majority in the Senate, are regretful that no one is yet rising to take Vandenberg's place.

Hopes had once been pinned on Sen. John Foster Dulles, veteran of many an international parley, but his defeat in New York last fall dashed them.

Chinese Editor To Address Women's Club

BPWC to Hear Talk On 'What China Will Be in Future'

"What China Will Be in the Future" will be the subject of an address to be given by Robert Chang Li Fu, Chinese editor, author and youth leader, who is attending Central Missouri State college, in Warrensburg, and will be the guest speaker Thursday night at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at Bothwell hotel.

Robert Chang Li Fu

When Chang arrived at Central Missouri State college last summer to enroll as a student his home province, Kwangtung, was controlled by the Chinese National government, but since that time it has been occupied by the Communists. Chang, who is not an exchange student, but supports himself, was cut off from news of his family and from funds. This brought the necessity of working in the college cafeteria.

Author of Several Books
Chang, at various times has been secretary general of the Chinese youth expeditionary army, acting governor of Ping Yuen district of Kwangtung, editor of the Chih Pao Daily News in Kwangtung; president of the Kuo-Min university alumni in Hong Kong and director of the Lips News Agency in Hong Kong. He is also the author of several books written in Chinese.

Robert Chang Li Fu, already a well educated man before he entered this country by way of San Francisco, had two years of law at Kuo-Min university in Canton, China; a year in the Chinese National Political school and a year in China's National Military academy, of which Chiang Kai-shek was commander, and has command of nine leading Chinese dialects and also of British Malaya.

Committee in Charge
The program will be in charge of the Education and Vocations committee, of which Mrs. Raymond Goddard is chairman. Members of the committee are Mrs. Thelma Cook, Mrs. Regina Franken, Miss Marie Fritz, Miss Ella Hertz, Mrs. Virginia Rose Moore, Mrs. Ruth C. Riley, Mrs. Marie Spendiff, Miss Alyce Summers and Mrs. Doretta Walte.

A special program of music has been planned at which time the Vaughn Sisters will sing with Mrs. Nellie Monegan as the accompanist. The Vaughn Sisters, Emma Jean and Charlene, are from Clarksburg, and have become popular entertainers not only in Sedalia but have appeared on programs in Kansas City, Chicago and various other places.

Non-Agricultural Employment Drops

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., April 3.—The Missouri Division of Employment Security reported today that February non-agricultural employment dropped 1,400 under the January figures of 1,089,500. February unemployment insurance payments were $2,783,383 as compared to $2,636,062. This is an increase of 34 per cent over February, 1949. Charles A. Ricker, Director, reported.

The Director added that February employment in manufacturing was 1,900 higher than in January, the gains noted in most lines of durable and non-durable goods.

Symphony Rehearsal Tonight

The rehearsal of the Sedalia Symphony will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Smith-Cotton high school, instead of previously planned in Broadway school.

99 Words in GOP Platform

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(P)—Congressional Republicans have announced in 99 words the "platform" on which they are running in the November elections. Here's how it goes:

- (1) Reducing taxes.
- (2) Balancing budget.
- (3) Eliminating government waste, especially along lines of Hoover commission reports.
- (4) Fighting Communism here instead of condoning it.
- (5) Providing fair market prices on farm products, aided by price supports—cooperative marketing, soil conservation, reclamation, rural electrification—no Brannan plan.
- (6) Continuing and improving Taft-Hartley law to protect public from excessive power of labor and management.
- (7) Developing an adequate social security system that does not limit opportunity nor discourage initiative and saving.
- (8) Protecting rights of veterans and minorities.
- (9) Developing a united American foreign policy for peace—world trade without undermining living standards.
- (10) Safeguarding liberty against Socialism.

CHURCH NEWS

The Sunshine Sunday School class of the Smithton Methodist church met on Wednesday, March 15, at the country home of its president, Mrs. William Montgomery, with Mrs. Oliver Bolte, Mrs. Charles Huntress, Mrs. Charles Huntress, Mrs. Charles Ellison and Mrs. George Mahnkens as assisting hostesses.

There were 12 members present.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Montgomery, who gave a scripture reading followed by prayer.

Mrs. Vest Streit read a poem, "There Is No Death."

The group then sang the class song, "Sunshine in My Soul."

A business meeting was followed by a social hour at which time refreshments were served.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church will be held in the church beginning at 1:30 o'clock.

Devotions will be led by Mrs. Charles S. Arnest, and the Rev. Roy L. Bowers will speak on "The Christian Home."

Members of the Williams Circle will serve as hostesses.

The executive committee will meet at 12:30 o'clock.

Pettis Players Begin Casting

Casting will begin Wednesday night for the Pettis Players' next full-length production, "The Male Animal." Michael J. Bogutski has been appointed by the board of directors to direct the play and will, with an assistant director to be chosen Wednesday night, select the cast. Persons who are interested in becoming members are asked to attend the meeting and become affiliated with the club, as all members are eligible to read parts in the try-outs.

The play chosen has been a favorite with college and little theatre groups, and in addition to its intelligent humor, has a serious side particularly appropriate at this time. As was remarked by the critic of the New York Times when the play first made its hilarious appearance on the stage, "There is more than meets the eye in this scrawled lamppost on the civilized male at bay."

James Thurber, best known for his essay, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," and Elliott Nugent, Broadway and Hollywood star, are co-authors of the play. There are eight men and five women in the cast.

Committee chairman and the play selection committee as appointed by the board of directors will also be announced at the Wednesday meeting, which is to be at Central Business College.

More Fire Runs

The fire companies at 5:05 o'clock Sunday afternoon were called to the 100 block on East Fourth street, where a 1948 Chevrolet coupe had caught fire from a short in the wiring. Damages of about $15.00 resulted.

The car is owned by P. E. Cunningham, Kansas City.

An alarm was received at 5:30 o'clock this morning, to Tenth street and Lamine avenue, where an electric light pole was on fire. Slight damage resulted.

Social Events

Victor Eisenstein, division manager of Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Association, and Mrs. Peggy Bracken, Fayette, were married Sunday in a simple ceremony.

The couple were married at the parsonage of the Fifth Street Methodist church by Rev. H. U. Campbell, pastor, at 3 p. m. Sunday. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Milton Walker, of Fayette. David Eisenstein, son of the groom, was best man. Others in attendance at the ceremony were Mrs. Irby Bunding, Chicago, Ill., daughter of Mr. Eisenstein, Milton Walker, Fayette, Mo., Miss Virginia Lindstrom, Sedalia, and Mrs. H. U. Campbell, wife of the pastor.

Mr. Eisenstein is division manager of Mutual Benefit in Central Missouri. Mrs. Eisenstein has been a nurse at Lee hospital, Fayette, since the death of her husband, Mr. William Bracken, in 1946. Mr. Eisenstein's first wife died in 1947.

After an extended trip south and west, stopping among other places at Phoenix, Ariz., for a National Managers meeting of the Mutual Benefit in April, they will reside at 900 West Fifth street.

Included among the Smith-Cotton high school seniors to be accepted for entrance at Christian college, Columbia, next fall is Miss Dorothy Ann Reed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Reed, 1006 West Seventh street, subject to the completion of her work this spring at Smith-Cotton high school.

She will be a member of the Junior centennial class at Christian college and as a student at Christian, she will be graduated in 1952, one hundred years after the first Christian college girls completed their first year of college work, according to Dr. J. C. Miller, president.

Mrs. Eldon Barnes of 424 North Engineer avenue, entertained with a miscellaneous shower Tuesday night, March 28, in honor of Miss Mildred Rank.

Games were played and after the honoree had opened her gifts refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the following: Mrs. Winston Rank, Mrs. Harve Rank, Mrs. Nora Rank, Mrs. Earl Rank, and Mrs. Ross Swearingin, of Lincoln; Mrs. Homer Whitlock, Urbana; Mrs. Eva Moore and grandson, Gary Hill, Kansas City, Kas.; Miss Judy Summers, Mrs. Elmer Summers, Mrs. Selma Barnes, Mrs. Dwayne McMullin, Mrs. Frank Summers, Joan Summers, Mrs. Billy Noel, Mrs. Deane, Mrs. Edward Barnes and son, Mrs. Pauline Finnel, Mrs. Ravey Jones and son, Mrs. William Shine, Mrs. Olson Potter, Mrs. Hershel Summers, Mrs. Armand Weaver, Miss Doris Ransdall, Mrs. Bill Armstrong, Mrs. Charley

Those who sent gifts but were unable to attend were Mrs. Joe Bast, of Lee's Summit; Mrs. Hayden Davis, of Lincoln, Kas.; Mrs. Gene Hill, of Kansas City, Kas.; Mrs. J. E. Noel, Mrs. Van Winkle, Mrs. Riley Ransdall, Mrs. Hayden, Kathryn Summers, Mrs. George Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Jim Quisic, Mrs. Lloyd Lane, Mrs. John Lane, Mrs. Jake Summers and Mrs. Jay Howard, of Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miller and children, Hazel Frances and Jimmy Lee, 661 East Sixteenth street, entertained with a turkey dinner Sunday, March 26.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. M. S. McKenzie, Mrs. Maynard Mittlehauser and children, Mary Ruth, Arl and Donna; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Landis, and Mrs. Dollie McGee, all of Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Way, of Leeton; Mr. and Mrs. Earl McGee and daughter, Mary Ann, of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaughan, of Knob Noster; Miss Edna Miller, Eldon; John Miller of Ottumville; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Miller and son, James Edwin, of Hughesville; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark and daughters Janice and Joyce, of Hughesville; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lee Whittall, of Sweet Springs.

Mrs. Miller was assisted in serving by her daughter, Hazel Frances.

Sheryl Sue Holtzclaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlin Holtzclaw, 1306 East Tenth street, celebrated her third birthday anniversary with a party Saturday. The afternoon was spent in playing games and taking pictures.

Those attending were, Mrs. John Carrier, and daughter Joyce Ann, Mrs. Virginia Haislip and daughter

Sermon From Wheel Chair

MILWAUKEE, April 3.—(P)—The First Baptist church was filled to capacity yesterday as the Rev. Francis F. Fisher preached a sermon he had intended to deliver on Palm Sunday one year ago.

This year the 34-year-old clergyman sat in a wheel chair and recounted the age-old story of Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem.

Behind him was a long year of pain. Before he could deliver last year's sermon he became paralyzed as a result of a swimming pool accident. It was feared his ministerial career was ended.

He was treated for months in New York and was flown back to his congregation last month.

On his return here his fiancée, Florence Athey, said: "We're going ahead building our life from a wheel chair."

Two Cars Damaged

Damage resulted to two automobiles about 7:40 o'clock this morning when they collided at Third street and Massachusetts avenue. No arrests were made.

One car, a 1942 Mercury, was driven by Edward Brill, 601 East Third street, who was going east on Third street, and the other a 1942 Dodge sedan driven by Roy Kendricks, route three, who was driving north.

No injuries resulted.

Archie Wilson to Independence

Archie Wilson, 906 West Sixteenth street, left today for Independence, Kas., to take over the management of the Goodrich Tire and Rubber company store there. Mrs. Wilson will remain in Sedalia for the present.

WAR IN THE JUNGLE: Does This Look Familiar, Joe?

Stretcher cases lugged through the jungle brush... Heavy trucks mired helplessly in the mud... Frantic building of pillboxes and barricades... These are scenes that will bring back disturbing memories to American GIs who fought in the Pacific. But the pictures are new—made in 1950. The troops are French-backed Viet-Namese fighters, and their enemies are the Viet Minh Communists led by Ho Chi Minh. The battleground is French Indo-China. In addition to the familiar sights of bush warfare, there is the spectacle of huge elephants—jungle equivalent of heavy tanks, carrying native troops to the front lines.

BOGGED IN THE MUD—As in all wars, mud plays an important role in the one now going on in French Indo-China between French-backed Viet-Nam forces and the Communists. This former U. S. Army truck is firmly mired after it collapsed a rotted bridge.

JUNGLE ARMY'S "HEAVY EQUIPMENT"—These elephants, carrying Viet-Namese troops toward the Communist lines in French Indo-China are the jungle equivalent of heavy tanks. Thick jungle underbrush makes modern tanks and equipment almost useless.

JUNGLE PILLBOX—Viet-Namese soldiers build jungle pillboxes against possible Communist assaults in the "hot" war in French Indo-China. On the right is a primitive wooden barricade. The troops wear their full uniforms—consisting of a pair of shorts.

WE INVITE YOU

TO READ THE RECORD OF THIS BUSINESSMAN-CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Compare it with the record of his opponent and determine in your own mind which is the better qualified to serve all the people of Sedalia as their Mayor for the next four years.

This is the business record of Herb Studer:

Employed by Montgomery Ward Company in 1939 as head of a store department. Promoted to assistant manager within eight months. Promoted to store manager within two years. Continued in this position for three years until his enlistment in the U. S. Navy.

Following his return to civilian life, he again became store manager for Montgomery Ward. Resigned in 1947 to become purchasing agent for the Sedalia factory of the Pittsburgh-Corning Corporation, a $5,000,000 industry.

Terminated this employment in 1949 to realize an ambition of many years to establish his own real estate business. In one year's operation of this business, he has already achieved outstanding success.

This outstanding record is positive proof of the character, honesty, integrity, and ability of Herb Studer. This is the man we need to accomplish an efficient, economical and far-reaching program for the planned development of Sedalia.

Vote tomorrow for Herb Studer and for the other fine candidates who are running with him and who will support his program for the future of Sedalia.

MY SINCERE THANKS TO THE PEOPLE OF SEDALIA

At the close of this City campaign, I want to express my sincere gratitude for the warm reception I have received in my visits in your homes and at your work. I have faced a well-organized and highly financed opposition, but I am confident that you, the individual voters, will judge the various candidaes for City offices on their individual merits and that you will choose wisely.

I would not close this campaign without extending my grateful appreciation to you hundreds of men and women of both political parties who not only have volunteered your personal support but also have gone out of your way to interest others in behalf of my candidacy for the office of Mayor. You have felt as I do that good city government should not be based on partisan politics. If I am elected your Mayor, we will work together to achieve the lasting benefits and improvements for Sedalia that I have outlined in the course of my campaign.

BURNS & McDonnell
ENGINEERING COMPANY
CONSULTING ENGINEERS
35th AND TROOST AVENUE
KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI
P. O. BOX 7088 DELMAR 4377

April 3, 1950

Honorable Julian H. Bagby
Mayor
Members of the City Council and
Members of the Citizens Advisory Committee
City of Sedalia, Missouri
Gentlemen:

We are pleased to comply with your request and are handing you herewith a brief report covering progress to date on the improvements being made to the sewerage system.

In accordance with a contract we had with your city for engineering services and dated September 18, 1945, we made studies of the sewerage system. Written reports were prepared outlining certain improvements to be made. The final report was prepared and presented to the Council in October, 1947. On the basis of the report a bond program was set up and on November 18, 1947, the citizens voted favorably on a $1,075,000.00 bond issue. This money was to be used to do all work necessary to make the improvements to the sewerage system.

One of the first things undertaken after voting the bonds was that of appointing a Citizens Advisory Committee of five members. Shortly thereafter, this committee approved the action of the Council in selecting the Burns and McDonnell Engineering Company to prepare construction plans and specifications. The engineering contract was approved by Resolution No. 54, passed by the Council and dated December 15, 1947.

Field information was gathered from which we started the preparation of plans and specifications. It was agreed upon by the Citizens Committee, the Council and the Engineers that the work should be done in the order of the need and importance to the community. Accordingly, we first prepared plans and specifications for improvements to the sewage treatment plants. The South Plant plans were completed first because of the urgent need there. While work on the plants was in progress, we also prepared plans and specifications for the necessary improvements to the Sanitary Sewer System. This was the second step in importance to the City. Considerable work was done on the Storm Sewer improvements (the third step in importance).

At a second meeting with the Citizens Committee, the Council and the Engineers, it was decided that work should be carried to completion on the sewage treatment plants, the sanitary sewers and as much of the storm water sewers as the funds would permit.

Accordingly plans and specifications were completed for all improvements to the three sewage treatment plants, the sanitary sewers, and part of the North Storm Water Sewer, which carries a large amount of sanitary sewage to the North Sewage Treatment Plant.

Competitive bids were received and all contracts were awarded to the lowest and/or best bidder. At each opening of the bids, members from the Citizens Advisory Committee and the Council were present. The Engineers carefully analyzed all bids and made their recommendations to the Council as to the awarding of the contracts. The Citizens Advisory Committee and the Council each approved the recommendations of the Engineers before the contracts were awarded.

All work originally contemplated on the Sanitary Sewerage System, and for which the bonds were voted, is under contract and will be completed.

The progress of the work in general is very satisfactory. It is expected that by the middle of this Summer all construction work will be completed and ready for acceptance by the city.
Respectfully submitted.

Census of 2000 On First Day

Taking of the census in Sedalia and Pettis county is progressing well as can be expected and excellent cooperation is being shown by the public, according to Edw. S. Behen, crew leader in Sedalia, who said a minimum of complaints have been made to the enumerators.

The first day enumeration began Saturday, resulting in the compiling of statistics on about 2,000 persons in Sedalia. Behen also reported the first day has shown a surprising number of babies in Sedalia.

Carl Ragar, crew leader of the enumerators taking the census in the country, reports splendid cooperation from the farmers. Although some farmers had not completed the forms sent to them earlier, the enumerators have been able to check with the farmer and complete the forms in a very short time.

Lattimore On Far East

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—Owen Lattimore disclosed today he advised the State Department seven months ago that the United States should "avoid premature or excessive strategic deployment in the Far East."

Lattimore's view was given in a confidential memorandum he submitted to a State Department advisory group last Aug. 18. It was made public today following a demand by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) who has charged Lattimore with being a "Soviet agent" and the "architect" of American Far East policy.

The State Department declined to make the Lattimore recommendations public, saying they were "solicited in confidence." But Lattimore gave the material out himself.

Lattimore's memoranda included the advice that the United States should abandon further support of Chiang Kai-shek, avoid trying to bring trade pressure on Communist China, and withdraw as soon as possible from "entanglements" in south Korea.

His advice against "premature or excessive" commitments in the Orient was given in connection with a recommendation on dealing with Soviet Russia.

"If there is to be war, it can only be won by defeating Russia—not northern Korea, or Vietnam, or even China," Lattimore said.

Dies of Injuries
FULTON, Mo., April 3—(AP)—George L. Taylor, 78, died today of injuries suffered when he was struck by a motor car Thursday morning.

Survivors include a son, Riley Taylor of Marshall; two sisters, Dr. H. L. Taylor of Jefferson City and James Taylor of New Bloomfield and a sister, Mrs. Beulah Ryan, Modesta, Calif.

The driver of the car told officers that Taylor suddenly stepped out in front of his car.

Will Is Filed
The will of the late Mrs. Lizzie Kellerman Hyatt, who died March 29, was filed in the Pettis County Probate Court of Judge A. M. Harlan, this morning. The will named her two nephews as co-executors, Cloyd Leftwich and C. A. Staples, also as heirs along with her brother, Judge A. C. Leftwich.

The will was made March 26, 1947.

Frank W. Hayes is the attorney for the estate.

Flying Bixbys Turned Back

TOKYO, April 3—(AP)—The army said engine trouble forced the flying Bixbys—Dianna and Bob—to return to Calcutta today, two hours after they took off in their attempt to break the late Bill Odom's world circling record.

The army said trouble in the right engine of the Bixby's twin-engine mosquito bomber had cut short their scheduled flight across Red China to Tokyo. They landed at Calcutta at 9:31 a. m., GMT (4:31 a. m. EST).

They still had a chance to beat Odom's 1947 mark of 73 hours, five minutes and 11 seconds if they could get the engine repaired and leave within three or four hours.

The Bixbys had been shooting at a 66-hour round-the-world flight. Their return here put them four hours behind schedule.

The husband-and-wife team left San Francisco at 9:03 a. m. (EST) Saturday.

There were no reports reaching Tokyo beyond the brief word that they had turned back and landed at Calcutta.

'Dead Man' Was Very Much Alive

DAYTON, O., April 3—(AP)—Guy Magetti, a funeral home operator, called police yesterday to report he had a "dead man" in his service car about whom he knew nothing.

When police arrived, Magetti pointed to a zipped-up rubber bag—the type in which morticians contain corpses. It obviously contained a body. The officers opened the bag.

It didn't contain a corpse. For up sat Aaron E. Talley, 40, of Dayton, who blinked his eyes and asked:

"Where am I?"

He was clad only in his underwear. His clothing was scattered in the garage in which the service car sat.

Police booked him on an intoxication charge.

But Magetti still was bewildered today. How, he wants to know, could a person crawl into such a bag and zip himself in?

So far, his only explanation: Practical joking friends.

Death Threats Back Red Ideas
SINGAPORE —(P)—The pro-Kuomintang "Chung Shing Jit poa" has received ten warning letters, some of them containing "death warnings," against publishing anti-Communist news, Tan Kok Chor, a director, said. Then someone tossed a hand grenade in the newspaper's office, but it failed to explode. Singapore police are still looking for the grenade-thrower.

Nearby Towns Have Robberies

Two stores were broken into late Saturday night by thieves who feared not the lighted store buildings, one in Otterville, the other in Smithton. Merchandise valued at several hundred dollars was stolen from both stores and about $85.00 in money from that in Smithton.

In Otterville the Blakesley Produce Co. was entered after thieves pried off a staple lock from the front door. This was between 9:00 and 11 at night. Here the thieves carried off groceries, ten boxes of cigars, several cartons of cigarettes. A considerable amount of lunch meat was also taken.

Approximately $250 in merchandise was taken in Otterville, according to Mr. Blakesley.

The E. A. Lemke grocery store at Smithton was entered sometime in the same time as that of the Otterville store. Here the thieves kicked out a large window in the front door to gain entrance in the face of a brilliantly lighted store. A large number of cartons of cigarettes were taken along with the $85.00 in money.

State Highway Patrol Troopers went to both stores and conducted investigations.

Rule Officer Out of Office

JEFFERSON CITY, April 3—(P)—Attorney General J. E. Taylor asked the Missouri Supreme Court today to throw the Bates county treasurer out of office for not doing his job.

The attorney general filed his suit against Marvin M. Cumpston in the form of a quo warranto action, under which Cumpston would have to come into court to prove his right to stay in office.

In the suit, Taylor alleged the Republican county official was properly elected to a four year term in the 1948 general election. He took office April 1, 1949, the petition said. But earlier, on March 14, 1949, Cumpston "entered into a contract of employment" with Skelly Oil Company and is still employed by the firm, Taylor said.

Consequently, the attorney general alleged, Cumpston hasn't been regularly in his county office as treasurer and ex officio collector.

"Because of his willful neglect of his official duties," the petition said, "Cumpston has long since forfeited his right to hold, occupy or to receive the emoluments of the offices . . ."

Taylor asked that Cumpston be ousted from office, be forced to pay costs of the suit and be assessed any other judgment the court thinks proper. He did not suggest the amount of a possible fine as is sometimes done in such cases.

'Teenagers Are Ordered to Die

BERLIN, April 3—(P)—A 'teenage gang leader and three of his comrades were sentenced to death today for a reign of terror they said was copied from the movies and crime books.

A court in the Soviet sector of Berlin imposed the death sentence on Werner Gladow, 18, who said he used Al Capone as his model in directing a band of 68 thugs.

The prosecution traced two murders, 10 attempted slayings and 21 major armed robberies to the gang.

Kurt Gaebler, 25, Gerhard Rogasch, 26, and Franz Redzinski, 35, also were sentenced to death. Gladow's mother, Lucie, linked with the band's activities, received 15 years in prison.

The Communist press seized on the trial to emphasize Gladow's testimony that his ambitions were aroused by reading American crime books and seeing American crime movies.

New Filings For State Nominations

JEFFERSON CITY, April 3—(P)—Raymond S. (Ray) Roberts of Farmington filed today for the Democratic nomination in the 22nd state senatorial district. Roberts, a one time state representative, is former state commander of the American Legion.

Two Republicans are seeking their party's nomination in the district. State Rep. Leo J. Rozier of Perryville and former State Representative Kirk Jones of De Soto.

The district, usually Republican, is composed of Jefferson, St. Genevieve, St. Francois, Perry and Madison counties.

Set Docket For The April Term

The docket for the April term of the criminal division of the Pettis county circuit court, was set this morning before Judge Dimmit Hoffman. One case was disposed of when the defendant, Chester Burk, 522 West Howard street, pleaded guilty.

Burke, charged with sodomy involving a seven-year-old girl, pleaded guilty before the court and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Ivan Harsch, charged with assault will be tried on April 17. The case of Vernon Sutherland was not set for trial nor was any disposition of that case made.

Other cases on the docket and the charges are:

Carl H. Hoehns, removing and concealing mortgaged property. No setting was made.

Carlos Hansen and Genevieve Hansen, forgery, both pleaded not guilty and their case set for trial on April 12.

Sammy Cole, charged with forgery, set for April 13.

Donald Eugene Hunter, burglary, case set for trial on April 14.

Terry Files, intoxicated driving. Not set for trial.

Evict Retired Coal Miner

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 3—(P)—Deputy Sheriffs evicted a retired coal miner who is suing the United Mine Workers welfare and pension fund.

He is George H. Livengood, 55, who said the writ of eviction was obtained by his landlord because the retired miner owes about $400 in rent back.

Deputy Sheriffs said Livengood's furniture—described by him as "a stove and a couple of bunks"—would be placed in storage.

"I don't know what we're going to do. Just sit on the highway, I guess," ruefully declared Livengood. "We don't have any friends or relatives we can stay with. We have only $7."

Livengood, victim of a heart ailment, formerly received a pension from the union welfare fund. He was expelled from the union after he filed suit in federal court at Washington, D. C., against the fund's trustees. The fund has suspended all payments because of its low reserve.

Traffic Case
Lloyd Overmier, 421 South Park avenue, charged with careless driving, was fined $25.00 in police court this morning by Judge Harry O. Berry, following a hearing.

Overmier, who pleaded not guilty, was arrested Saturday evening after an accident at Sixteenth street and Stewart avenue.

According to the police, Overmier was driving a 1940 Oldsmobile convertible west on Sixteenth street and tried to turn north on Stewart avenue. The car swerved around and in endeavoring to miss another car, Overmier drove over a curb and struck a tree.

The Oldsmobile was badly damaged.

Reports Car Damaged
Roy Head, 602 East Boonville street, reported to the police the rear end of his car was badly damaged sometime between 11:00 Saturday night and 2:00 o'clock Sunday morning while parked in the 100 block on West Main street.

The driver of the car or truck which struck his automobile drove away and did not notify the police.

Brush Control In Pastures by Chemicals Use

Various Sprays and Methods for Use Are Given

The use of some of the new chemicals in controlling woody plants has shown a great deal of promise, according to the Agricultural Extension office. Thousands of people are interested in these methods of control on pasture land, land to be seeded to pastures, cropland, in fence rows, and other similar areas. However, not enough basic experimental data are available to make specific recommendations. The following procedures are based upon observations and results to date and represent suggestions rather than specific recommendations. They should be of value in trying out the merit of these new brush killers.

There are four different methods of application that have shown promise. The selection of a method should be based upon the problem involved, which may include size of the brush, time of year, cost and availability of materials, equipment available and the labor versus cash outlay involved.

Foliage Spray

The application of spray material in the leaves has shown promise of controlling most sprouts but applications over a two or three year period will likely be necessary to give a complete kill. It does lend itself to large area control both from the standpoint of labor and cost involved. Large brush does, however, pose a problem of proper equipment. The optimum time of application is also comparatively short and seems to have an important bearing on results secured. Present information indicates that the spraying is best done soon after the leaves are fully developed and before hot, dry weather causes a check in growth. In the fall just before the leaves start to lose their green color and at the time plant food is being translocated to the root system is another indicated favorable stage for foliage spraying.

Use: 1. 2,4-D at the rate of 2-3 pounds acid equivalent per acre can be used on pure stands of buckbrush, willow, sumac.

2. 2,4,5-T at the rate of 2-3 pounds acid equivalent per acre can be used on Osage orange or buckbrush.

3. 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T mixtures usually on a 50-50 basis should be used on mixed stands. 2-3 pounds per acre of acid equivalent should be used.

4. Ammate. $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 pound per gallon of water. Enough should be applied to wet the foliage thoroughly. Ammate is very effective on large brush but it may kill the grass and it is rather expensive to use on large areas. Big brush may require 150-200 gallons of spray per acre.

In general small brush may be sprayed with tractor sprayers at 10-15 gallons spray per acre—(2,4-D, 2,4,5-T or mixtures of the two) but larger brush requires much larger quantities of water to give adequate coverage.

Dormant Spray

Frequently it is not convenient to spray during the growing season. Further if pastures could be sprayed in the dormant period legumes might thus escape serious damage. Spraying with a fairly high concentration, the proper chemicals in oil have proven effective on dormant brush. This is probably not practical on large brush.

Use: 1. 2,4,5-T. $\frac{1}{4}$ pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

2. 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D (50-50 mixture). $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

Use enough spray to give thorough coverage. Low pressure-low volume sprayer most desirable.

Basal Spray

Since the dormant spray is not very practical for large brush some other approach to dormant application for larger material seems desirable. The spraying of the base of standing brush from the ground up to around 12 inches has given very promising results. So far the spray has been applied completely around the base and only trees from 12-12 inches in diameter have been treated. Indications are that this method can be applied at anytime. The spray should be thoroughly wetted but runoff isn't desirable.

Use: 1. 2,4,5-T. $\frac{1}{4}$ pint 40% material or equivalent in per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

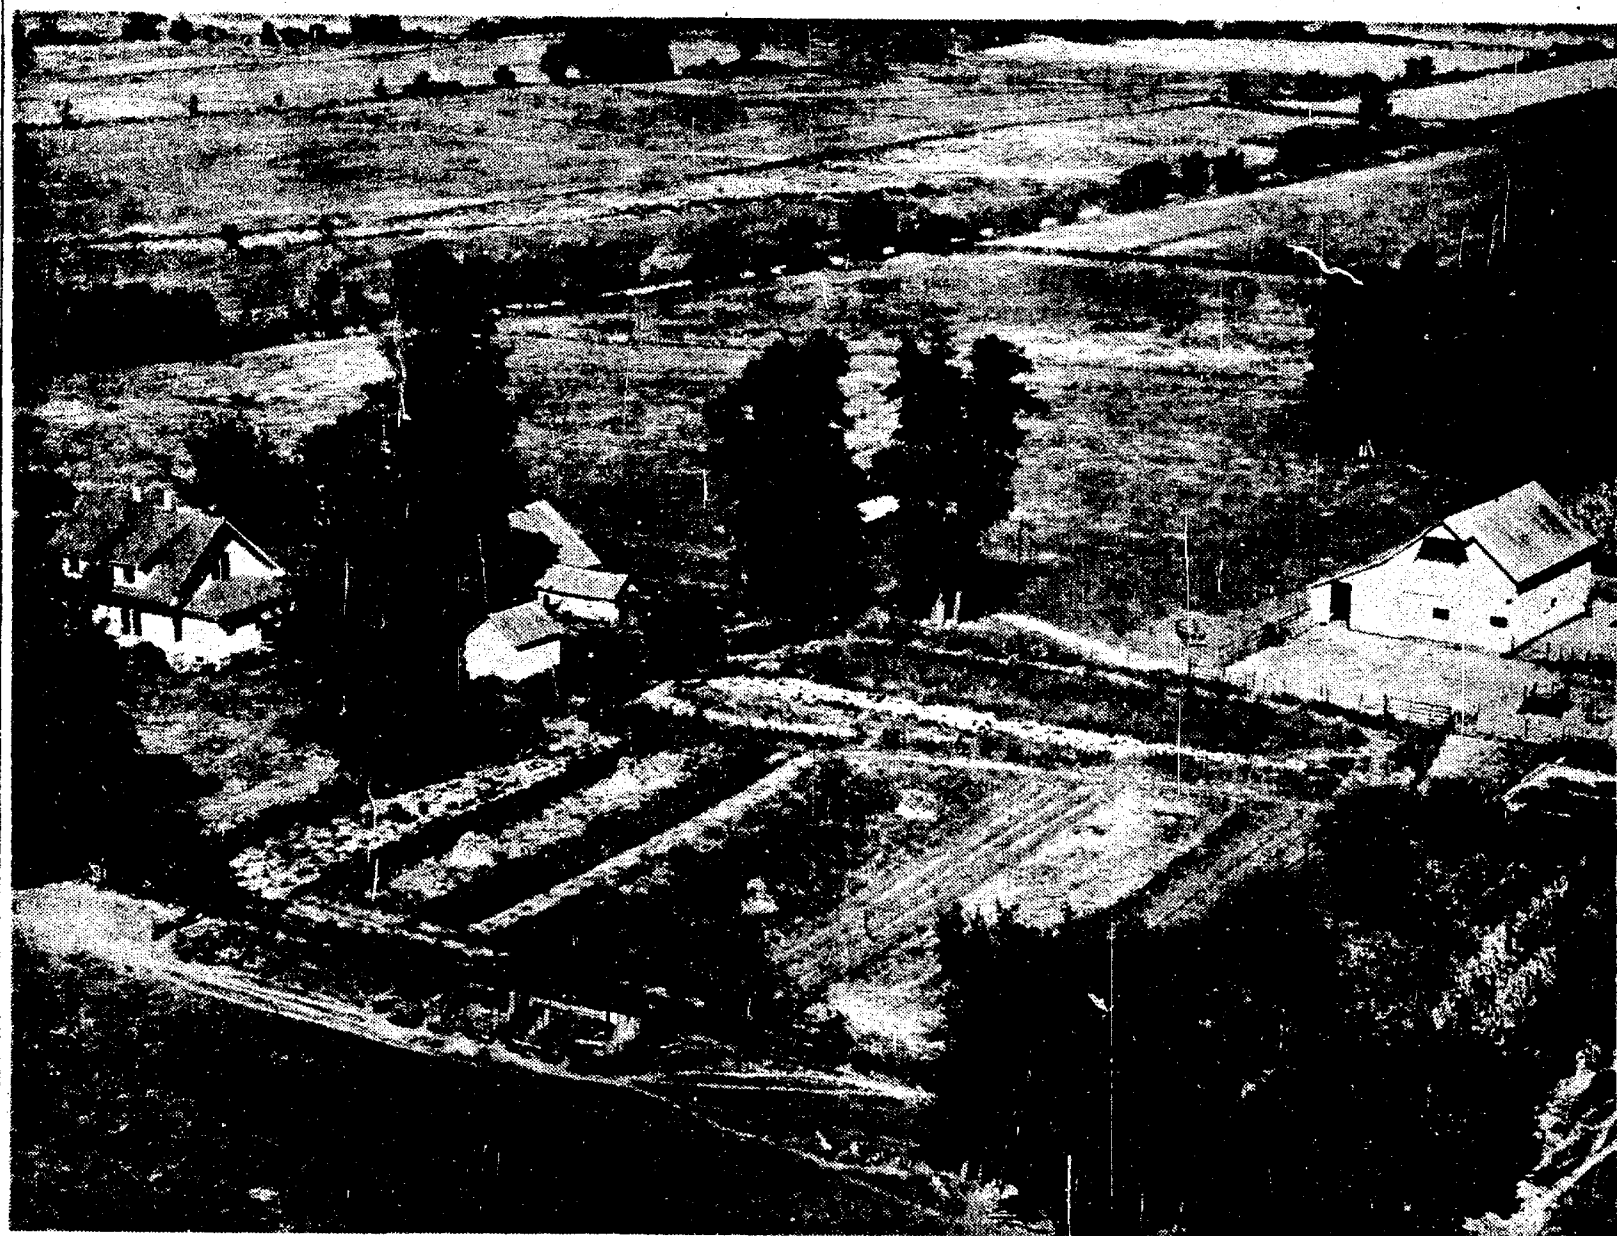

2. 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D (50-50) mixture. $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

The material may be sprayed or painted on the desired area.

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Whose farm is it? Occupants of the above farm home may have wondered this spring about a plane buzzing low over their buildings. The picture explains it. The airplane pilot didn't know whose farm it was. The photographer didn't either. The two of them just flew around the Central Missouri area served by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspapers and took pictures. They couldn't take pictures of all the farms but they got as many good shots as possible during the light time.

So about once a week hereafter, until the pictures run out, the Sedalia Democrat-Capital will print these farm home pictures as a news feature. The newspapers would like to know whose farm homes they are.

H. A. Wade, who is employed with the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company and lives in LaMonte, is the owner of the farm pictured in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital March 6, in the "Farm Mystery Spot."

The farm consists of 120 acres and is located a mile and a half south of LaMonte on highway 127. Mr. Wade has owned the farm for nine years and it has been farmed for the past eight years by Merle C. Templeton, who does general farming.

Ten acres on the farm land are under the AAA pasture improvement program, seeded with ladino clover, red top and timothy.

Training Meet For 4-H Officers

A training meeting for 4-H club presidents, vice presidents, secretary-treasurers, parliamentarians, and reports will be held this coming Saturday, April 8th. This training meeting will give the 4-H officers an opportunity to receive instructions that will help them fulfill the responsibility of the office they hold. As the success of a club is largely dependent upon its officers they have a responsibility and owe it to their clubs to do the best job possible.

The presidents, vice presidents and parliamentarians will meet in the Sedalia public library and the secretary-treasurer and reporters will meet in the assembly room of the courthouse. The meeting will start at 2 p. m.

Following the training meeting the group will be taken on a tour through the Sedalia Democrat-Capital newspaper company.

Corn Borer Again Threatens

The corn borer is rearing its ugly head again. And Virgil Burk, extension entomologist at the Missouri College of Agriculture, says Missouri farmers may be faced with the biggest corn borer infestation ever.

But he says there are some things you can do to control this threat. First, he says that you can reduce the number of borers greatly by clean plowing before May 1. The borers will work their way to the surface but will die of exposure or be killed if there is no trash on the ground to protect them.

Burk recommends that you wait until May 15 to plant your corn if possible, as the next step in your corn borer control program. The corn planted on this date will escape damage from one brood of borers and greatly reduce damage from a second brood. If moderate infestations develop later, Burk recommends that you apply an insecticide.

There is also the probability that the correct address is not on file in the county office and the notice could not be mailed, he said.

On Wednesday afternoon, April 5th, a training meeting for 4-H poultry leaders will be conducted by the assistant county agent and Mr. E. B. Winner, poultry specialist.

Use: 1. 2,4,5-T. $\frac{1}{4}$ pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

2. 2,4,5-T and 2,4-D (50-50) mixture. $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ pint 40% material or equivalent per gallon kerosene or diesel fuel oil.

Summer Plans For 4-H Events

Recreation And Other Activities Been Arranged

The Pettis County 4-H Council met for its quarterly meeting on Tuesday evening March 28 with 74 leaders and junior council members present.

Prior to calling the meeting to order the council song leader, Miss Alberta Runge, lead the council in group singing. The meeting was called to order by the president Emmett Fairfax, leading the group in repeating the National 4-H club pledge. Twenty-four clubs answered roll call by telling what their club is doing to secure parent cooperation. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Nomah Dean Snow, and approved by the members.

The president discussed the plans for the annual recreation night program to be held April 15, and appointed a committee to be in charge of recreation with Miss Anna Lee Harvey as chairman, and a committee to be in charge of refreshments. The council moved to hold a picnic for council members on June 20 at Liberty Park, and a committee to be in charge was appointed by the president. Plans for a 4-H softball league were discussed and a committee was appointed to meet with the county agents to work out the details.

Camp July 21-24

Mr. Phifer announced that enrollments are due in the office by April 1 and that all club members interested in scholarships and trips should make application prior to May 1. Mr. Phifer also announced that the 4-H camp at Knob Noster will be held from July 21 to 24 and that deposits for camp will be accepted between April 10 to 24.

The revised score cards for the Dorothy Bacon Plaque were distributed.

Miss Watkins gave a discussion on how 4-H clubs may observe Rural Life Sunday to be held on May 21. She also announced that officers training meeting to be held April 8th.

Mr. Otis Thorburn of the Missouri Conservation commission was the guest speaker for the evening. Mr. Thorburn's topic was "Wildlife Conservation in Your Community," in addition he showed a color film on Tulip Culture.

After adjournment, Anna Lee Harvey led the group in several

Livestock Day At Columbia

The twelfth annual Livestock Feeders Day will be held Friday April 14 at Columbia. President Theodore Anderson of the Missouri Livestock Association will open the program at 9:45 in the livestock pavilion at the University Farm. The following is the program for the day:

Recent Animal Husbandry Research—Dean J. H. Longwell, College of Agriculture.

The Livestock Situation—E. R. Kiehl, agricultural economist.

Missouri's Livestock Extension Program—E. S. Matteson, Extension Animal Husbandman.

Beef Production Awards—Western Division by Walter Atzenweiller, Kansas City Chamber of Commerce. Eastern division by Lowell Burns, St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Can the World Feed Its People?—An address by Noble Clark, Associate director of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station.

Noon Lunch—By Block & Bridle club, students of the College of Agriculture (at the Pavilion).

Professor L. A. Weaver, chairman of the animal husbandry department will preside at the afternoon session.

Swine Experiments: (1) Pasture vs dry lot fattening. (2) Protein supplements—animal and vegetable. (3) Locally rendered tannage vs. standard process tannage—John F. Lasley, Lamb Production: Maximum use of pasture and roughage—Albert J. Dyer.

Cattle Feeding Experiments: (1) Pasture and roughage in producing fat yearlings. (2) Effect of winter rations on summer gains and final weight. (3) Use of steers vs. heifers for fat yearling beef. (4) Winter rations for steer calves. (5) Corn silage vs. dry roughage. (6) Protein concentrate vs. grain for addition to roughage ration—Albert J. Dyer, Paul Q. Guyer and John Landers.

Anyone interested in farming is invited to attend.

Entries By May 1 For Camps, Scholarships

Each year numerous college scholarships in Agriculture and Home Economics are awarded to boys and girls engaged in 4-H club work and who plan to enter college in the fall. Any 4-H boy or girl who plans to enter college this year may make application for these scholarships. The applications forms are available at the County Extension Office and must be filled out prior to May 1. The following 4-H scholarships are being awarded in Missouri this year: Six Wildlife Conservation Scholarships of $150 each to the University of Missouri; given by Edward K. Love; Three Fire Prevention Scholarships of $200 each to any Land Grant College, by the Farm Underwriters Association; Two Dairy Scholarships of $150 each to the University of Missouri, by the National Dairy Products Corporation; Two Watkins Scholarships of $100 each, based upon the members general 4-H club record to the University of Missouri; Six Kroger Scholarships of $200 to the University of Missouri.

All of the scholarships with the exception of those awarded by the Kroger Company are based on the applicants achievements in 4-H club work. The Kroger scholarships are available to any graduate of an accredited high school and are awarded on the basis of scholastic achievement in high school as well as on leadership qualities demonstrated in school, church and youth organization. Applications for Kroger scholarships can be made directly to the Dean of the Missouri College of Agriculture, through the County Extension Office or through school officials.

Applications for both the National 4-H club camp and the American Youth Foundation camp must also be made prior to May 1. Four trips to the National 4-H Camp to be held in Washington D. C. from June 14-21 will be awarded to two boys and two girls from Missouri. The Missouri Chain Store Council will provide $50.00 to the delegates elected to attend this camp. Four trips to the American Youth Foundation camp, Shelby, Michigan, will also be awarded to two 4-H boys and two 4-H girls from Missouri this year. The girls camp will be held from July 31 to August 13 and the boys camp from August 14 to 27. The Danforth Foundation and Missouri Ruralist will provide $50.00 to each of the 4 delegates selected to attend this camp.

Delegates to both camps will be selected on the basis of their 4-H achievements, supplemented by personal interviews.

Past History of Road Battles In the State of Missouri

By Larry Hall

JEFFERSON CITY, April 2—(P) — Thirty years and a good many millions of dollars ago, Missouri started its state highway system.

The period spans the era when the automobile developed from the old Ford Model-T to the chrome-spun, high priced, streamlined cars of today.

During that time there have been storms aplenty as the road system grew from a puny infant to a lusty giant.

And most of the fighting was about money. Poke a taxpayer in the region of the pocketbook and it's axiomatic you'll get a yelp of pain. He may even fight back.

The latest in a long series of Missouri road battles is in the last round now. Voters register their decision in a special referendum election Tuesday on increasing the present two cent gasoline tax to four cents and using one cent for low type rural roads.

Let's take a look at what has gone before.

Oldtimers Remember

Oldtimers may remember how things were before we had a state road system. You had to be a pretty hardy character to start out across country in those days. What few roads there were depended almost entirely on local financing.

Then, in 1920, the voters approved a constitutional amendment calling for a $60,000,000 bond issue. The so-called centennial road law followed and the state system was under way.

The first paving project was completed Dec. 17, 1920. It was an 18-foot wide slab of concrete on U. S. 68, running a little ways from Joplin in both directions.

Today the present mileage on highways of the major state system totals 8,369.

First surfaced route across the state was U. S. 40. The final stretch, east from Columbia, was finished in 1927. This same section is now under contract for rebuilding.

Had Approved Income

Meanwhile, in 1924, the voters had approved a permanent source of income for highways by passing a two-cent a gallon gasoline tax. Increasing that tax is the issue next Tuesday.

And in 1928 the people approved a second bond issue for $75,000,000. As of April 1, unpaid bonds amounted to $38,000,000 and unpaid interest to $4,056,250. The debt is expected to be cleared up by 1937.

The second bond issue was the signal for starting the supplementary or farm-to-market road system, tying in with major routes.

Missouri now has 9,971 miles in its farm-to-market network.

The first three farm-to-market projects were completed almost together. The first graded and surfaced section according to state highway department records was 3.484 miles on Route A, Stone county, finished Aug. 4, 1930. A section of 4.525 miles on Route A, Webster county, from U. S. 60 north was finished Aug. 7. And 9.055 miles on Route B, Clay county, from Liberty to Kearney was finished the next day.

Five Proposals

Since 1938, five proposals in a row to increase the gasoline tax have been knocked down by the voters. Most recent was the Curry constitutional amendment in 1948 for a three and a half cent tax. It was defeated by 232,637 votes.

The latest proposal, before the voters Tuesday, is to double the present two cent tax which produced $19,320,947 in last fiscal year. The highway department estimates the extra two cents will mean a net gain of about $16,000,000 in revenue.

Proceeds of one cent, or a net of about $8,000,000, are pledged by the highway commission's promise to be spent for low type rural roads. The money would go to the commission. A bipartisan advisory committee of four, including two county judges, would help the commission decide how to spend it. The advisory committee would be appointed by the governor.

Commission's Authority

One-fourth of the new low type rural road funds would have to be allotted in the ratio of a county's area to the state's area. One-fourth would be in the ratio of the county's population to the state's population. The other one-half would be allotted at the commission's discretion.

If the commission wanted to, the bill gives it power to withhold rural road funds from any county that failed to levy a road and bridge tax of at least 35 cents for each $100 assessed valuation. (For Jackson and St. Louis counties the minimum requirement would be a 12 cent tax.)

The highway department has not estimated how much mileage the extra revenue would build.

It's an Old Story

Rain Making Tried for 10,000 Years

ERSATZ LIGHTNING was tried in the 1880s when balloons sparked off showers.

SNAKES/ALIVE were used by Hopi Indians in their ritual dances for rain.

By SHERRY BOWEN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Attempts to make rain—something New York is about to begin in hopes of filling its reservoirs—have been going on at least 10,000 years. Of course, it's new to spend $50,000 to seed clouds with dry ice and chemicals to quench a city's thirst. But man's dream of rain making is an old story.

Primitive man tried to make rain as soon as he had crops to water.

First he tried magic. The best rain maker of a tribe often became chief. It was a good job, except when he failed to bring rain he often was killed.

Wierd Rites Tried

Most of the rites hinged on sprinkling or pouring out water. The Omaha Indians, for instance, dumped water and then sucked up the mud and blew it from their mouths to imitate spray. But in Java, Australia and other places they beat each other until blood flowed to imitate rain.

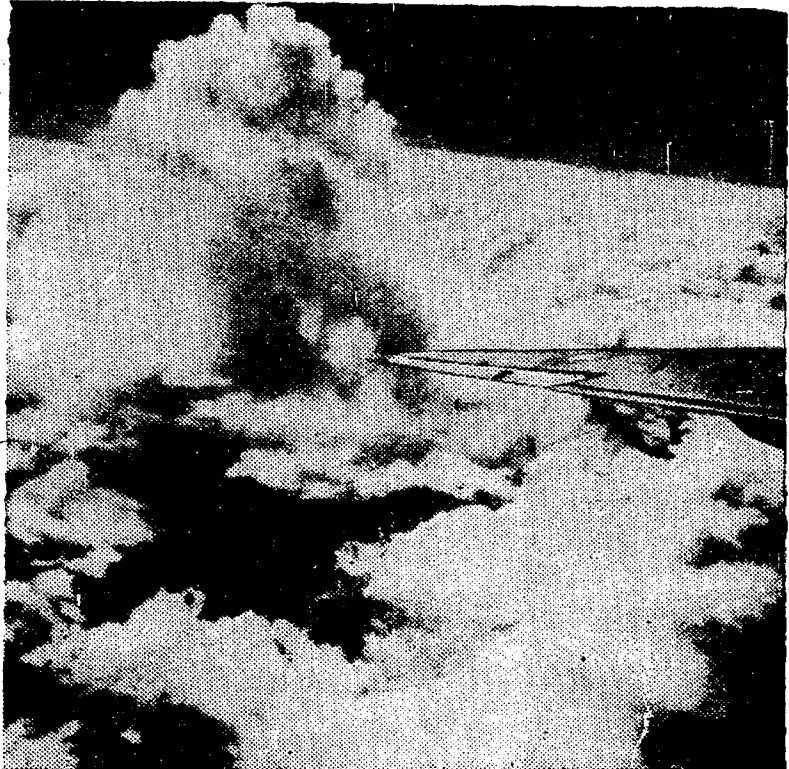

Or the rain maker might take a bath. The Arabs used to toss their holy man into a pool when they wanted rain. In South Africa grass and leaf-clad women sang ribald songs while they cleaned the wells.

The rites of the Hopi Indians in which they dance with rattlesnakes in their mouths are known to most Americans. That, too, is a rain making ceremony.

Twins, frogs, black animals, were among the things some people thought helped bring rain. These became the center of the rites. Or they might call upon their dead. Orinoco Indians scattered the ashes of relatives a year after death as a rain charm.

Men also appealed to their gods. Zeus in Greece was a rain god, among other things, as was Jupiter in Rome. Or they might become angry at their gods after a long drought. As late as 1893 in Sicily, images of saints were turned to the wall, stripped, thrown into pools and otherwise abused.

Smoke Clouds Prescribed
South American Indians also burned grass in a drought, thinking the smoke would rise and

form clouds. Very early men believed that battles caused rain. This was supposed to be due to the noise or to the blood and sweat evaporating and forming clouds. Or the gods were supposed to want to cleanse the battle field.

When guns came to be used, the smoke and concussion was supposed to bring rain. This was taken seriously even in the United States. Between 1890 and 1893 Congress spent $19,000 trying to make rain by sending up balloons and kites with explosives. Some of the experiments were near Washington, but most of them were in Texas.

A series of dry years started in the United States in 1891. This set off a wave of rain makers with secret formulas. Frank Melbourne, supposed to be an Australian, gained reput as a rain maker near Canton, Ohio. Then Goodland, Kas., called him. He set up a two-ing, treasurer, and Jim Wood—small, secretary.

Dorman Smith Awarded Headliners' Club Medal

NEA Artist Honored for "Consistently Outstanding Editorial Cartoons"

DORMAN H. SMITH: A jump ahead of the news.

By NEA Service
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.—(NEA)—Dorman H. Smith, chief editorial cartoonist for NEA Service, has been awarded the 16th annual National Headliners' Club medal for "consistently outstanding editorial cartoons."

The news reached him at his home in Cleveland, where he is recovering from an illness that has kept him from his drawing board for several weeks. He expects to resume his cartoons soon.

Smith is a veteran of more than 30 years as an artist, and is today one of the nation's most widely published cartoonists. His daily interpretations of domestic and international news appears in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital and more than 700 other newspapers in the U.S. and Canada.

The award is one of several presented to newspapermen in various fields by the National Headliners' Club of Atlantic City "to honor those behind the news." Smith's cartoons have previously won him many honors, including the Sigma Delta Chi award for "outstanding editorial cartooning" in 1946.

The cartoonist works in a studio-office at the Cleveland headquarters of NEA, the world's largest newspaper picture and feature organization. He reads

"Shucks, Nobody'll Believe I'm an Angel."

Friday night and was sponsored by the Rural Youth Organization. There were 15 contestants with first place and $15.00 going to Mr. Everett Miller, contestant for the J. O. Y. Sunday school class of the Christian church, Wallace Wimer representing the Sunshine Pals Extension club placed second and $10.00 and John Allen sponsored by the Junior class of the Knob Noster high school, placed third and $5.00.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Covey spent Tuesday in Kansas City with Mrs. Bess Clyatt and family.

Ben Hogan Is All Set For Masters

Golfers Arrived In Augusta Today For Tournament

By Sterling Slappey
AUGUSTA, Ga., April 3—(AP)—The discomfiting story of Ben Hogan's hot golf at the Augusta National was the greeting for the main installment of golfers today when they arrived for the Masters tournament.

Hogan's golf was interrupted last year by a bus accident at a time when Sammy Snead, Cary Middlecoff and others couldn't stop him. A big highway bus and Hogan's car tangled in West Texas. Three practice rounds in four days at the National indicate that Ben's steadiness, stamina and shotmaking are sharpening towards championship shape. They get the major test Thursday through Sunday.

Little Ben's putter acted up occasionally yesterday but he still shot a par 72. Saturday he got a 68 and Thursday, one of the best rounds of golf ever shot over the Augusta National—a 66.

Hogan has been practicing for the Masters while the main body of the professional golfing troupe played the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C.

"I feel I'm as near as possible to top physical shape. I feel fine."

Hogan has won every major title in America except the Masters, some of them many times. He's been in the Masters money winning bracket seven times, but victory has always eluded him.

51-Articles for Sale

Here's the last of 12 lesson articles that show you how to do the basic square dancing steps and some of the advanced figures.

Before you go off to your first (or next) square dance, consider the three basic elements that combine to make happy square dances. First, and some people will say most important, is the caller. A good caller adds a great deal of flavor to a dance, and helps it run smoothly and efficiently. But you, as a dancer, have to remember one thing: You must do what the caller tells you, and when he tells you to do it.

If you're having a fine time, swinging your purty little gal, and the caller wants you to switch to the corner lady, and you look over at the corner lady and decide she has buckteeth and you'd rather not—do it anyway. If you keep dancing with your partner, when everyone else is switching, you'll mess up the whole pattern, and spoil everyone else's evening. Do what the caller says; he's the boss of the square dance.

And remember that the caller's patter is a rhythmic affair. He won't come right out and say, "Tom Jones, take two steps forward and then meet your partner, Mary Smith, and turn her around a few times." He'll keep his patter in rhyme, like this: "First gent move right up and then, swing your own sweet gal again." It means the same, but you may have to do a little interpreting the first few times.

The second element of a successful square dance is the band, or, to be technical about it, the orchestra. Don't expect smooth, even music from the typical barn dance orchestra. The musicians are usually having a good time, too, and they'll clown around a little. Country style music and square dancing go together like ham and eggs, and you can't have a good square dance without real country music.

There will be a strong rhythmic beat played by at least one of the instruments—a guitar or a bass or a piano or a drum. Keep time to that rhythm; all the steps are built around a certain number of measures that the caller follows—and you have to follow it, too.

And the last of the three elements is, of course, the dancers themselves. That's you. Remember one important thing—square dancing is pretty strenuous exercise. Wear comfortable clothes. Girls should wear low-heel shoes, full skirts so they can whirl about energetically, and blouses that allow free action. And boys should be in comfortable clothes, too. But don't dress sloppily—just comfortably.

Now all you have to do is go out and have a swell time.

Dennis Wails For Freedom

The corners of his mouth turned down in despair, two-year-old Dennis Seager wails for rescue after an ill-fated adventure at Kansas City. He jammed his right foot down a pipe near his home and became trapped. Patrolman Dorris Towns, who tried to comfort the boy here, called water department employees, who came to Dennis' rescue. They dug a hole, broke the pipe, and set Dennis free. Omar President (right) works to free the boy from his trap. (AP PHOTO)

Stricter Laws to Combat Spying

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, April 3—(AP)—The House un-American activities committee proposed Saturday a crackdown on embassies it said are "a focal point of Communist espionage and propaganda."

The committee also urged stricter laws to combat spying and treason, "utmost teamwork" instead of "petty rivalry" in government moves against Reds, and closer checks on defense plant workers.

The recommendations were made in a committee report to the House on activities last year. For the most part, the report presented thumbnail summaries of committee hearings and investigations.

The major attention, it said, was on Communist activity in the field of spying, since "the committee believes that espionage is one of the most deadly weapons in the hands of the American Communists at the present time."

"Experience during the past five years," the committee said, "has demonstrated that the embassies of Communist-dominated countries constitute a focal point of Communist espionage and propaganda. Such activity should be limited by proper safeguards sternly enforced."
